FERDINAND OF RUMANIA DIES; BOY, 6 BECOMES KING

Agency Council Now Rules—Bucharest Not Disturbed by Receipt of Long Expected News.

EX-PRINCE CAROL MAKES NO MOVE

His Arch-Enemies, the Bratians, Control Kingdom and His Own Following Is Said to Be Small.

By the Associated Press. BUCHAREST, Rumania, July 20.—King Ferdinand of Rumania, breathing "I feel very tired," was laid in the arms of his wife, Queen Marie, died peacefully at the Chateau de Pleshur at Sinaia, 2:15 o'clock this morning.

He left the throne to young Prince Michael, who became King in a proclamation ceremony at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The little Prince, not yet 6, is the son of former Crown Prince Carol, who resigned his rights to the throne in 1914 and has already been named by the Government that it intends to abide by the decree of the year accepting his renunciation. The royal power, however, will be exercised by a Regency.

The Government, soon after the King's death, issued a proclamation naming Ferdinand as the "first King of greater Rumania," and calling upon the nation to gather with love and confidence in the country's destinies around young King Michael.

The regency council was sworn in at 4:30 this afternoon before the national assembly. The assembly consisted of King Michael, who was accompanied by his mother, the Princess Helen.

Cause of King's Death. The real cause of the King's death was given as congestion of the lungs developing from a cold of several days standing, but his body had been weakened by a long and stubborn struggle with cancer.

With him as he died in addition to the Queen, were his daughter, Queen Marie of Yugoslavia, the former King and Queen of Greece, Prince Nicolas and the Princess Elena. Former Crown Prince Carol, called in Paris was the only child of the royal family missing.

A national assembly was called for this afternoon to take the oath of Queen Marie, the Queen Mother, Princess Elizabeth and of the regency council, which consisted of the patriarch, Miron Cristea, Prince Nicolas and Supreme Court Justice G. V. Budigan.

The King's funeral probably will be held Saturday with burial at Curtea de Arges, about 40 miles west of Sinaia, where the bodies of Rumania's former Kings lie entombed.

Proclamation by Government. The Rumanian Government today issued the following proclamation: "Rumanians: The first King of Greater Rumania is dead. A cruel illness put a premature end to his most glorious reign, which realized our nation's dream of centuries.

Upon ascending the throne, King Ferdinand had promised solemnly before a national representation that he would be a good Rumanian. His reign has entirely proved that he accomplished his promise.

"Disconsolate today, we weep for the death of the man who made a greater and better Rumania. Rumanians can never forget there was no sacrifice which King Ferdinand did not make for the welfare of his country.

"Unshakable in his conviction and decision during war, good and true during peace, Ferdinand the First will remain forever a King who associated himself closely with his people and realized reforms which brought justice, power and tranquility to the State.

"We cannot be more firmly faithful to the great ideal to which he devoted his life than by remaining closely united to assure the prosperity, life and progress of the country, unimpaired by unalterable devotion to the dynasty, constitution and laws of the country, we must group ourselves with love and confidence in the destinies of our country around King Michael, and assemble all our forces to insure a brilliant future to Greater Rumania so cruelly affected."

King Ferdinand was born Aug. 1, 1865, and was 61 years old. The regency council has begun continued on Page 2, Column 6.

MAN AND WIFE FOUND DEAD IN GAS-FILLED ROOM

Policeman Kicks in Door at Rooming House and Finds Bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Varnadore.

The bodies of a middle-aged pair, Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Varnadore, were found in a gas-filled, sealed third floor room of a rooming house at 3832 West Pine boulevard this afternoon.

Varnadore was said to have been a former Baptist minister, who had turned to book selling and also odd jobs as he could pick up. Apparently the pair had been living meagerly.

When a policeman kicked in the door at 3 o'clock, he found the bodies of the couple in the room. The key hole, windows and other openings in the room had been sealed with rags. A quantity of morphine and several injection needles were found.

No notes had been left, but police took charge of a package of letters addressed to the pair. Neighbors said the woman attempted to end her life by gas about six months ago when they were living at 3829 West Pine boulevard, across the street.

They recently moved into 3832 West Pine in the absence of the landlady, Mrs. Bernatre, from the city.

The smell of gas caused occupants of the house to notify the Laclede Avenue Police Station.

When Varnadore's pockets were searched at the morgue a 1-cent piece and a wedding ring were the only objects of value found.

RULING FORBIDS USE OF STREETS BY FREIGHT TRAINS

Illinois Traction Has No Right to Send Cars Over
St. Louis Thoroughfares,
Decision Says.

COMPLAINTS CAUSED COMMISSION TO ACT

Public Service Body Declares Power to Control
Their Highways Remains Vested in Cities.

The Illinois Traction System has no right to operate freight trains over St. Louis streets, the Missouri Public Service Commission has decided. Operation of freight cars between the McKinley Bridge and the depot at Twelfth and Lucas streets has aroused complaints from persons living along the route.

In an opinion written by Commissioner Ing and concurred in by other members of the commission, it is held an ordinance passed in 1907 authorizing the St. Louis Electric Terminal Railway Co. (the Illinois Traction System) to operate passenger and express cars in St. Louis, but does not provide for a general freight service. A copy of the opinion was received today by City Counselor Mench.

For years the Illinois Traction System has sought to have the ordinance amended to authorize general freight service. This failing, a customer, the St. B. Brecht Supply Co., applied last March 7 to the commission for an order on the traction to install a switch track from its plant on Case avenue, near Twelfth, to the main line, for freight purposes. City Counselor Mench intervened, protesting freight service had not been authorized by ordinance.

Streets Controlled by City.
"It seems to be a well settled rule of law that cities have control of their streets and highways and such control is not disturbed by passage of the Public Service Commission law," says the Commission.

"The Commission is of the opinion that the Legislature of the State of Missouri has the power to regulate the service of railroads and to change or modify any of the terms or conditions imposed by a city ordinance concerning the rate of service of railroads occupying its streets or to authorize the Public Service Commission to do the same.

"The Commission recognizes the power of the city of St. Louis to refuse the defendant or any other railroad the right to occupy the streets and highways or to admit them on such terms and conditions as it deems proper, but we are of the opinion that the Legislature is not thereby robbed of its power to control the service of railroads and the public interest.

"The fact, however, that the Public Service Commission has the power to regulate and control the service of railroads does not imply that it should exercise that authority unless it be for good and sufficient reasons and in the public interest.

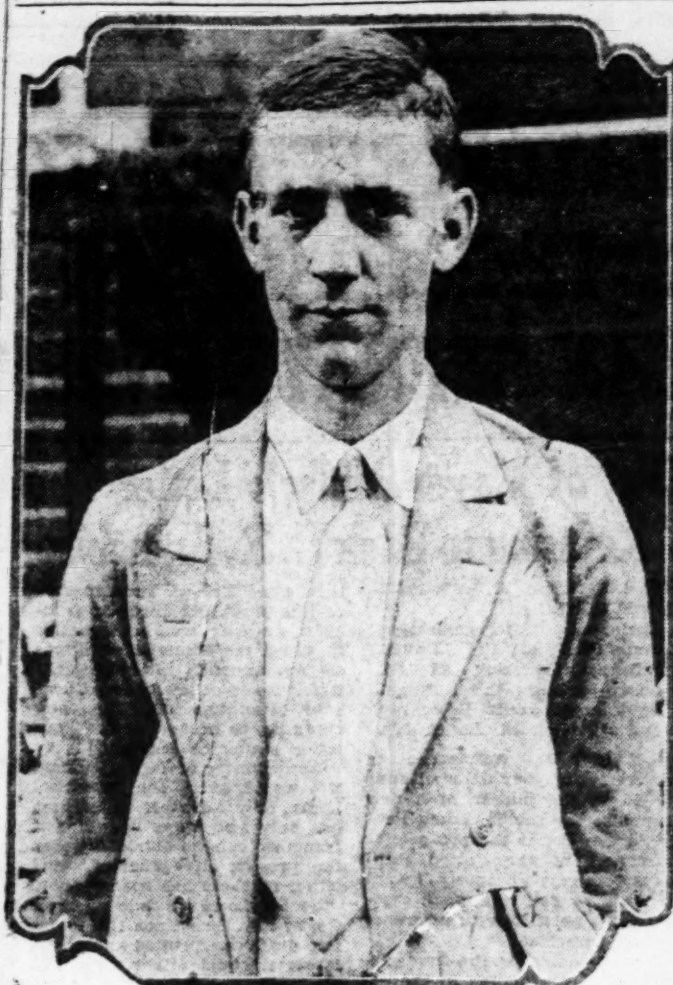

"The laws of the State of Missouri recognize the right of cities to keep railroads off their streets or to admit them with such terms or conditions as they may see fit to impose, and this commission does not believe that the interest and right that cities have in the control of their streets should be lightly regarded; but that in making orders and regulations affecting services of railroads it should always be guided not only by the convenience of the railroad company, but by the public welfare."

In the Illinois Traction case, the Commission finds that the order sought should not be granted unless a greater necessity exists than has been shown. The Commission notes the promise of the company to run its freight cars at night only, except in emergencies, but says the city is not "unreasonable" in its desire to keep freight cars off its streets because of the danger involved.

Confessed Killer of Adams

business which he termed a "boot-leg joint."

"We shall not appear here as prosecutors of Newman or Hyland. We shall present evidence only to use in the defense of Charles Birger." He then admonished the jurors that "the law presumes a man to be innocent."

Hyland Depicted as Dope.
"Hyland did drive the car for the Thomasson boys at their request, to Joe Adams' house, but he did not know there was a plot to kill Adams," Attorney Dial, counsel for Hyland, said, in opening for his client.

"Hyland did not know what was in their minds and hearts," Dial asserted. "The Thomasson boys asked Hyland to wait for them while they went into Joe Adams' house. He drove them away at their request."

Dial asserted that Harry and Elmo Thomasson tricked Hyland into driving the murder car, because Harry had a grudge against the defendant.

Newman's Plea "Not Guilty."
Attorney Dillon, speaking for Newman after his co-defendants had their say, masked Newman's defense behind a statement, "Not guilty." He said Newman drove the State today to Dwell at Birger's command on the basis of the murder. Newman has told the correspondent that he will tell the truth of his connection with the alleged murder conspiracy.

The statements of Attorneys Smith, Dial and Dillon, who spoke in the order named, were brief. State rests at morning session; eleven witnesses heard.

The State at the forenoon session had rested its case. It concluded its testimony today with 12 minor witnesses who corroborated details of the story told yesterday by Harry Thomasson, 19-year-old confessed slayer of Mayor Adams.

As the prosecution's star witness, Thomasson testified that the murder of Adams was decreed by Birger and that he and his brother, Elmo, were ordered to do the killing by Birger, who paid $100 to get rid of the Mayor who had harbored the rival Shelton gangsters.

The first witness called by the State today was Owen Barry, a bus driver of Marion, who corroborated the testimony as to a telephone call he received from Birger the night following the murder of Adams.

Birger had asked if Carl Shelton came in on the bus and was told that Shelton had not.

Notched Revolver Identified.
A meticulous substantiation of Harry Thomasson's story appeared in the examination of Sheriff Oren Coleman of Williamson County, who was recalled to the stand. The Sheriff identified a Coits 45-caliber revolver as one taken from Thomasson and which the youth said he used in the Adams murder. A notch, which Thomasson said had been cut in the grip by Freddie Wooten, a Birger gangster, was described by the Sheriff over objections by defense counsel. The revolver was admitted in evidence.

Rwell Beckoff of Dowell testified he found the ruins of the automobile used by the slayers and afterwards buried in a field near Dowell, Dec. 19.

COOLIDGE SENDS AID IN FATAL AUTO MISHAP

Two Women Killed Near Summer White House When Machine Goes Over Cliff.

By the Associated Press.
RAPID CITY, S. D., July 20.—President Coolidge receives his first personal touch with the Government at Washington today with the arrival of Secretary Hoover, as guest at the summer White House.

The Commerce Secretary is the first Cabinet officer to come into the Black Hills and Mr. Coolidge hoped to learn from him the latest developments in the situation created by the Mississippi floods and those regarding commercial aviation which might have arisen from Hoover's conference with Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

It also was expected that the President would desire to know the Secretary's view on the necessity of calling Congress into session a month or so earlier, although at present the administration considers an early session not necessary because of the flood alone.

Coolidge Sends Back Aid.
Two women were killed about a mile from the President's home yesterday, when their automobile slipped over a 100-foot cliff. They were Mrs. M. G. Hagen of Fargo, N. D., and Mrs. M. Bannerman of Minneapolis.

President Coolidge passed the scene a short time after the accident and sent members of his party back to offer what assistance they could. Meantime, soldiers on duty here guarding the President, aided in recovering the bodies from the wreckage.

Hagen and his two sons, following in another car, witnessed the accident. It is believed the car stalled on a steep incline and slid backwards over the cliff.

Bringing a more detailed report on the Mississippi River flood problem, Secretary of Commerce Hoover today came to the summer White House for a conference with President Coolidge. The Secretary withheld comment on the proposals he intends to make to the President, but it was disclosed that he sees only enough money in sight to carry on relief work until December.

Mr. Hoover left the train at Custer, S. D., 15 miles from the State game lodge. The President had driven there earlier in the day to meet him. Mr. Coolidge sat in the White House limousine awaiting the arrival of the Secretary.

The defense at this juncture recalled Gus Adams, brother of the murdered Mayor, for further questioning about the decoy note used in the murder. After saying he had shown it to Carl Shelton, whose initials were signed to the note, he was excused.

The crowd was packed in so tightly that at 10 a. m., during a recess to await the arrival of belated witnesses, spectators rose for a brief walk. Defense counsel utilized the recess for another conference on procedure.

The State resumed at 10:45 o'clock, with Mrs. Lizzie Adams, night clerk at the New Hibernia Hotel in Harrisburg, who testified that Birger and the Thomasson boys came to her hotel around midnight of Dec. 12. The boys registered under assumed names and Birger left.

The State introduced the hotel register as evidence.

TWO SLAYERS OF THREE POLICEMEN SEEKING PAROLES

R. J. Lewis, Sentenced for Killing St. Louis Officers, and Robert Creed Apply for Release.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 20.—Two slayers of St. Louis policemen, Roy Joe Lewis and Robert Creed, were given a life sentence and the latter a 15-year term, will be given hearings before the State Penitentiary Board Aug. 8 on their applications for release from the penitentiary on parole. They are included in a list of 32 parole applications docketed for hearing Aug. 8 and 9.

Following his daily practice, Twisten went to a switch to "kill the circuit," while another power unit was being turned on. He did not follow his usual precaution of wearing rubber gloves. His hand or his arm, it is believed, brushed the high voltage wire. He was employed as a sub-station operator. He was 25 years old.

SPEED OF 300 MILES AN HOUR CLAIMED FOR BRITISH PLANE

(Copyright 1927.)
LONDON, July 20.—Five miles per minute, or 300 miles per hour, is the speed claimed for the Bluebird, a British monoplane which will compete for the Schneider trophy against United States and Italian planes next September.

The Bluebird is guarded like a state secret and the Air Ministry has refused entrance of reporters to the airfield to obtain information about Captain Frank T. Courtney, the pilot of the flying boat which is berthed at the airfield.

The Bluebird will be flown by Flight Lieutenant Worsley. It is declared to be the fastest thing ever made by man.

SIX MEN ARRESTED FOR FLOGGING ORPHAN

Alabama Prosecutor's Letter to Klan Requesting Names of Attackers Unanswered.

By the Associated Press.
ONEONTA, Ala., July 20.—Six of seven men indicted for participation in the flogging, June 26, of Jeff Calloway, an under arrest today. Attorney-General Charlie McCall expects an early trial for the men.

The indicted were returned yesterday by a special Blount County grand jury investigating, at the instigation of Gov. Bibb Graves, the flogging of Calloway. Attorney-General McCall personally supervised the inquiry. Calloway was a 19-year-old, masked hand until he was unconscious. The 19-year-old farm hand orphan said he was accused of having attended church while intoxicated.

Those indicted and arrested were Eugene Dofs of Tarrant City, L. E. Clayton, Clifton Clayton, Chester Clayton, Peter Carlisle and Dr. L. S. Fennell of Oneonta. Dr. Fennell was indicted for kidnapping only and the others for kidnapping and assault and battery.

The flogging of Calloway, according to a letter written by the Attorney-General to the Alabama head of the Ku Klux Klan, was participated in by members of the Oneonta and Tarrant City chapters of the Klan. The Attorney-General stated that the State had proof and requested the names of the klansmen participating. His letter was not formally answered.

Thomasson sticks to story. Despite defense efforts to discredit the witness, Thomasson stuck to his story that Birger and the other defendants had conspired to kill Adams, who sheltered the rival Shelton gangsters. He related in detail how Birger, Newman and Connie Ritter instructed him and his brother to "kill Adams and ask no questions," and declared he was paid $50 apiece by Birger gang paymaster, at the order of the gang leader.

Attacks by Birger's lawyers on Thomasson's credibility served only to bring out the motive for his confession of the killing. He said he believed Birger was responsible for the death of his brother, Elmo, who was killed in the burning of Birger's fortified rendezvous, "Shady Rest," in Williamson County.

The youth, pale from his imprisonment at Chestnut penitentiary, took the stand rather nervously, but under the questioning of State Attorney Martin became confident.

He told how he and Elmo were at "Shady Rest" on the night of last Dec. 11. There, he said, the proposition was broached to them

Thomasson said Birger promised him and his brother immunity from the law and $50 for every shot that hit Adams.

"No law is big enough to reach you," Birger is alleged to have told Thomasson.

After Thomasson had left the stand, State Attorney Martin called several corroborative witnesses.

Slayer Swears Birger Ordered Murder of Mayor Adams and Paid $50 a Shot for the Killing

Harry Thomasson Testifies That Ray Hyland Drove Death Car and Art Newman Supervised the Job.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

BENTON, Ill., July 20.—At yesterday's session of the Adams murder trial the State delivered a final smashing blow when Harry Thomasson, confessed slayer of Mayor Joe Adams and the prosecution's star witness, linked together strong evidence already given by other witnesses and placed responsibility for the murder directly on Charlie Birger.

Thomasson swore that Birger decreed the murder of Adams, ordered him and his brother, Elmo, to do the killing and assigned Ray Hyland to drive the automobile for them. And so the Thomassons called Adams to the door of his home in West City last Dec. 13 and shot him down. Thomasson also implicated Art Newman in the plot.

Birger, Hyland and Newman are now on trial for their lives.

BOY DIES OF WOUNDS INFLECTED BY ROBBER KILLED BY AUTO, ANOTHER CASES OF INJURIES

M. L. Meeker Jr., 14, Fired on by Men Who
Up His Father.

Michael Leonard Meeker Jr., 14 years old, who was shot in the chest by two men who were returning from a holdup in St. Louis County, died last night at the St. Mary's Hospital.

He was in an extremely condition after anti-toxin treatment at city hospital, where he was recovering from three wounds, said Dr. W. F. Bowman, physician.

Michael was shot twice in the left shoulder after four men who robbed his father of $4 at Chase and Price roads. A third man went through a chase with the father's mouth. He was taken to St. Mary's Hospital and died July 8. Two days later he was out and forced Meeker and his father to drive to the hospital.

BOY DIES OF WOUNDS

INFLECTED BY ROBBERS

M. L. Meeker Jr., 14, was killed by robbers. He was shot by a man who fired on him from a car. He was killed at his father's home.

Michael Leonard Meeker Jr., 14 years old, who was shot by robbers in a holdup of his father's home, died last night at the home of his parents, 4309 Hunt avenue.

He was in an extremely weak condition after anti-tetanic treatment at city hospital, while he was recovering from three bullet wounds, said Dr. W. P. Button, his physician.

Michael was shot twice in the left shoulder after four men had robbed his father of $4 at Clayton and Price roads. A third bullet went through a cheek and entered his mouth. He was treated at St. Mary's hospital and released July 5. Two days later Dr. Button sent him to City Hospital where his condition was diagnosed as "possible tetanus" and anti-tetanic serum was administered. He was discharged again last Sunday.

In a weakened condition, he suffered a sudden relapse late last night. A blue touring car crowded Meeker's automobile to the roadside late at night. Four men got out and forced Meeker and his son to get into the car. One covered them with a pistol, while another fired wantonly as he was getting back into the car. Meeker reported to the Sheriff's office. He described the man as a foreigner. The robbers, he said, followed him part of the way as he was taking his son to the hospital.

TEXT OF MAYOR'S REFUSAL TO BACK 30-YEAR CONTRACT

deal to the Federal courts when they cannot have their way in the State tribunals. I am not certain that it will be for the best interests of our public to enter into a franchise like the one under consideration, which would give over the use of our streets for 30 to 50 years, but would leave the company free to disregard its contract obligations under the ordinance whenever the commission or the courts authorized it. It may be wiser for us to let the new company take over the property of the United Railways and operate it under the present franchises, and to await the developments of the next few years in the transportation situation, before entering into any new agreement. I am giving careful consideration to that question now. Whatever arrangement is made should, in my opinion, be predicated upon a frank statement of the actual amount of money invested in the new venture, and of the plans for future financing, and should contain a provision for the forfeiture of the franchise in the event an effort should ever be made by the company to secure a modification of its terms by a commission or court order.

I expect to reach a definite conclusion on this whole matter in the very near future.

Yours very respectfully,
VICTOR J. MILLER,
Mayor of the City of St. Louis.

MAYOR REFUSES TO SPONSOR U. R. 30-YEAR CONTRACT

April 1. In this interview Newman declared that unless the city granted the new company a 30-year franchise with a guaranteed return above all expenses equivalent to 7 per cent on a valuation for the property of $60,000,000, he would appeal to the Missouri Public Service Commission, or the courts, if necessary, and there set as high a return as he believed he could get, a valuation of as much as 8 per cent on $75,000,000 valuation.

In the letter, received by the Mayor July 2, the reorganization committee of the United Railways and Terminals, Inc., advised that the company would accept by July 15 they would cease all negotiations with the city on the franchise question.

Mayor Refuses to Be Rushed. Indicating that he is not to be rushed into advocating a new franchise the Mayor said:

"It may be wiser for us to let the new company take over the property of the United Railways and Terminals, Inc., and to await the developments of the next few years in the transportation situation before entering into any new agreement. I am giving careful consideration to that question now."

The letter from the reorganization committee to which Mayor Miller's letter is a reply was signed by F. O. Watts, A. L. Shapleigh and Stanley Clarke, attorney for the committee, who also signed the letter to the Mayor, are absent from the city.

Shapleigh Hardware Co.; William P. Gest, president of the Philadelphia Fidelity Trust Co., of Philadelphia, and Edwin M. Bulkley of the firm of Spencer, Trask & Co., a New York banking house.

J. Sheppard Smith remarked, when given the substance of the Mayor's letter, that comment would be a matter for the reorganization committee as a whole and that he had nothing to say at this time.

F. O. Watts, A. L. Shapleigh and Stanley Clarke, attorney for the committee, who also signed the letter to the Mayor, are absent from the city.

Walter League Approves Moral Laws for Youth. Convention Adopts Resolution Attributing Divine Sanction to Statutes; Fundamentalism Implied.

Laws made by men were credited with divine sanction in a resolution on the morals of the young, to be voted on today by 1500 serious-minded young people of the Lutheran Walter League.

The resolution, with perceptible, but scarcely outspoken, fundamentalist leanings, has been accepted by the Resolutions Committee. The league of 10,000 young Lutherans is holding its thirty-fifth international convention in the Field House of Washington University, a school distinguished in science, particularly medicine, which has set for its next goal, eminence in the science of government.

We declare, as Christian young people," concluded the resolution, "our unqualified adherence to the doctrines and truth of Scripture, as the only source of Creed and as the only rule of life and conduct. We profess loyal adherence to the laws of our respective countries, as divinely imposed, and we are determined to submit to all rules of moral decency and decorum as required by the laws of God and man."

FRAULEIN RASCHE TO TRY OUT PLANE IN U. S.

Hopes to Make Her First Flight in America in Flamingo on Friday.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Miss Thea Rasche, blond, fair-skinned, blue-eyed, bobbed-haired "flying fraulein" from Germany, announces the hope to make her first American flight in her German airplane, Flamingo, from Roosevelt Field Friday.

Fraulein Rasche, who arrived with Commander Byrd and the other American trans-Atlantic flyers on the Leviathan Monday went to the Custom House yesterday and made arrangements for the entry of her plane into this port.

"Commander Byrd so kindly told me," she explained, "that I could make use of Roosevelt Field. It will take only a day or so to assemble the plane and another day to tune it up. I am anxious to be in the air again."

"I have no contract with Charles A. Levine, nor with anyone else," she said. "I am over here just for myself. I plan to fly some in my own ship. You know it weighs only 1200 pounds with a motor of no more than 100 horsepower. It is good only for stunts."

"After a time I want to buy some kind of an American craft and I will practice long distance flying. That must be different from stunt flying."

"I would like to fly across the ocean, and I would like to be the first woman to do it, but there is no possibility of my trying it before next spring at the earliest."

Fraulein Rasche made her first solo flight in 1924 and got her pilot's license in 1925. In 1926 she began stunt flying which gained her fame in Germany as the only German woman flyer. Miss Rasche is wealthy and there is nothing commercial in her visit here.

"I fly for the sport of it," she said.

WALTER LEAGUE APPROVES MORAL LAWS FOR YOUTH

CONVENTION ADOPTS RESOLUTION ATTRIBUTING DIVINE SANCTION TO STATUTES; FUNDAMENTALISM IMPLIED.

Laws made by men were credited with divine sanction in a resolution on the morals of the young, to be voted on today by 1500 serious-minded young people of the Lutheran Walter League.

The resolution, with perceptible, but scarcely outspoken, fundamentalist leanings, has been accepted by the Resolutions Committee. The league of 10,000 young Lutherans is holding its thirty-fifth international convention in the Field House of Washington University, a school distinguished in science, particularly medicine, which has set for its next goal, eminence in the science of government.

We declare, as Christian young people," concluded the resolution, "our unqualified adherence to the doctrines and truth of Scripture, as the only source of Creed and as the only rule of life and conduct. We profess loyal adherence to the laws of our respective countries, as divinely imposed, and we are determined to submit to all rules of moral decency and decorum as required by the laws of God and man."

Irreverence for "the inerrant Word of God" fostered in high schools and colleges was charged in the resolution with responsibility for "disrespect of authority, together with many of the present social and moral ills."

Defend Modern Youth. "While we welcome some of the recent publications on the problems of youth, with their clear analysis and constructive suggestions," the resolution began, "we resent the present-day tendency of many authors and public lecturers who indiscriminately denounce all young people as supercilious, pleasure-mad, immoral, impatient of authority and restraint, and as a menace to the welfare of the church and state."

"While we maintain that the general moral level of the Christian youth of today is no lower than that of previous generations, we nevertheless deplore the tendency of the average youth toward extravagance, immaturity and disrespect for the laws of their country."

"While on the one hand we deplore the laxity of parental authority and the lack of proper example on the part of those in authority, we feel that we must attribute much of the prevalent restlessness and disregard of authority, together with many of the present social and moral ills, to the tendency of many teachers in high schools, colleges and universities to encourage and to foster irreverence for the inerrant Word of God, together with the constant advocacy of a new system of man-made morals, whereby they remove the strongest force working for a Christianized civilization."

THREE PERSONS DROWNED IN DAY WHEN SWIMMING

ROY COOK LOST LIFE WHEN HE PLUNGED INTO BIG RIVER NEAR CEDAR HILL, MO., TO SAVE GIRL.

Roy Cook, a railroad wreckmaster of 1711 North Forty-third street, was drowned yesterday while swimming in the Big River near Cedar Hill, Mo. An 8-year-old boy and a 15-year-old Negro boy were drowned while swimming in East St. Louis sloughs on the same day.

Cook, who was 30 years old, was a member of a picnic party of East St. Louisans who were swimming in the river. One of them, Virginia Munn, 12 years old, of 1716 North Forty-third street, became frightened while wading and Cook plunged in after her. The girl was able to reach the bank safely without assistance, but Cook sank and did not reappear for some time when his body floated to the surface. His wife, Zella, witnessed the drowning.

William, 8-year-old son of Louis Rider of 639 Collinsville avenue, was drowned about 3 o'clock yesterday when he dived into a slough near First street and Pennsylvania avenue and failed to come to the surface. Two boys who had been swimming with him called David Chamberlain, a railroad employee, from the nearby B. & O. roundhouse, who recovered the body.

Lawrence King, 15 years old, a Negro, of 1825 Central avenue, was swimming with several companions in a slough three-quarters of a mile south of East St. Louis at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when he was attacked with cramps and was drowned. His body was recovered by an undertaker's assistant.

YOUTH SERIOUSLY WOUNDED
BY STRAY BULLET IN STREET

Suspect, Arrested, Says Weapon Was Discharged Accidentally in His Home.

Shot in the abdomen and seriously wounded, John Kubisak, 20 years old, of 5340 Labadie avenue, was found last night on the sidewalk at Twelfth street and Cass avenue. He said he was standing at the corner and felt a pain when the bullet struck, but heard no shot.

Police learned that Kubisak had been present in a saloon at 1126
Cass avenue when Joseph Ogar, 1124 Cass avenue, and another man quarreled over gambling there.
Ogar, arrested at his home, said
he went home after the quarrel and sat at third floor window with an automatic pistol in hand, fearing trouble. He said his wife attempted to take the weapon from him, and during the scuffle the weapon was accidentally discharged into the street. He denied aiming at anyone, or of being aware that Kubisak had been wounded.

Patrolman Walter Promnitz, who was investigating the case, went into a yard behind the saloon and was bitten twice in the left leg by a dog.

LINDBERGH MAKES FIRST STOP
ON 3-MONTH TOUR OF NATION

HARTFORD, Conn., July 20.—
Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in his
"Spirit of St. Louis" landed at 2:25
p. m. today on Brainard Field, the first stop in his three months' air tour which will take him to every state.

With his famous smile, the Atlantic flyer stepped out to be met by the dignitaries of City and State and a roar of welcome from thousands of throats.

"Lindy, Lindy," the crowd cried, and he stopped a moment in his greetings to smile and wave at the crowd. He left Mitchell Field in New York at 12:50.

DRY CLEANUP IN BALTIMORE

Washington Prohibition Agents
Assist in Wholesale Raids.
BALTIMORE, Md., July 20.—
Baltimore and Washington prohibi-

Baltimore.

Before noon they had made about 20 raids and arrested many persons. The agents said the raiding will continue until the city is
"dried up."

Says G. O. P. Will Meet in 'Frisco.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, July 20.—San Francisco will probably be the scene of the Republican National Convention next year, W. H. Crock-

California, said today. After a conference with Charles D. Hilles, vice chairman of the National Committee, Crocker said only the flat veto of President Coolidge or National Chairman William M. Butler would prevent selection of the Pacific Coast city. He added that the majority of the committee members have said they favored San Francisco.

Exc-Tammany Leader Dies.
By the Associated Press.
MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 20.—James J. Russell, 73 years old, lawyer, politician and manufacturer, is dead at his home after a lingering illness as the result of a paralytic stroke. Russell was in 1896 a citizen of New York and a well-known Tammany leader of that day. He bitterly opposed William J. Bryan for the presidency and published a book, "Why William J. Bryan Was Not Elected President."

Charged with flourishing a deadly weapon, he said he did it in self-defense, believing he was about to be attacked. He also was charged with violating the bone-dry law, 94 bottles of home-brew having been found in his kitchen. Mrs. Stauffer hasn't been paid yet.

John Polamitis, proprietor of a restaurant at 1411 Market street, was arrested last night on complaint of a waitress, Mrs. Viola Stauffer, 26 years old, of 4414 Evans avenue.

Mrs. Stauffer, according to her story, was employed by Polamitis at $10 a week, but became dissatisfied yesterday, her fifth day, when two of her dresses were stolen from the restaurant. She asked to be paid off, and Polamitis offered her $3, she said. Last night she and her sister, Miss Marie Higgins, went to Polamitis' living quarters above the restaurant to collect the wages, and Polamitis flourished a revolver. The sisters ran for police and Polamitis was arrested.

Whether he will be prosecuted is doubtful. Berry, in his last moments, declared the shooting was accidental.

YOUTH WHO KILLED CHUM IN PLAY AT "DRAW" ARRESTED

Harvey Stone Returns After Roaming Entire West Since Last August When He Shot Charles Berry.

Sought by police since Aug. 20, 1926, when he shot and killed his chum while they were playing with a revolver they thought was unloaded, Harvey Stone, 18 years old, was arrested at 1 a. m. today at his home, 7216 South street, Maplewood.

His chum was Charles Berry, 19, of 917 South Theresa avenue. They were playing in Berry's bedroom on the evening of Aug. 20 with a revolver that had belonged to Stone's father. The game was to see who was "quickest on the draw."

Stone held the weapon against his left side, as if in a holster, and drew it forward with his right hand, aimed it at Berry and pulled the trigger. Berry fell backward on his bed, mortally wounded. They had taken the cartridges from the revolver, but had overlooked one.

Got Water for Chum.
Stone got a glass of water for Berry and then went out for a physician. He became unnerved, however, and boarded a street car, riding to the end of the line and then boarding a freight train which carried him to Kansas City.

From then on he wandered from city to city throughout the West, Southwest and South. He had no peace of mind; every time he saw a policeman, he ran, he says. Two and a half weeks ago he returned home and last night somebody informed police of his return.

Whether he will be prosecuted is doubtful. Berry, in his last moments, declared the shooting was accidental.

EMPLOYER ARRESTED AFTER WAGE DISPUTE WITH WAITRESS

Woman Who Quit Job Says Restaurant Owner Drove Pistol on Her and Sister.

John Polamitis, proprietor of a restaurant at 1411 Market street, was arrested last night on complaint of a waitress, Mrs. Viola Stauffer, 26 years old, of 4414 Evans avenue.

Mrs. Stauffer, according to her story, was employed by Polamitis at $10 a week, but became dissatisfied yesterday, her fifth day, when two of her dresses were stolen from the restaurant. She asked to be paid off, and Polamitis offered her $3, she said. Last night she and her sister, Miss Marie Higgins, went to Polamitis' living quarters above the restaurant to collect the wages, and Polamitis flourished a revolver. The sisters ran for police and Polamitis was arrested.

Charged with flourishing a deadly weapon, he said he did it in self-defense, believing he was about to be attacked. He also was charged with violating the bone-dry law, 94 bottles of home-brew having been found in his kitchen. Mrs. Stauffer hasn't been paid yet.

Exc-Tammany Leader Dies.
By the Associated Press.
MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 20.—James J. Russell, 73 years old, lawyer, politician and manufacturer, is dead at his home after a lingering illness as the result of a paralytic stroke. Russell was in 1896 a citizen of New York and a well-known Tammany leader of that day. He bitterly opposed William J. Bryan for the presidency and published a book, "Why William J. Bryan Was Not Elected President."

Charged with flourishing a deadly weapon, he said he did it in self-defense, believing he was about to be attacked. He also was charged with violating the bone-dry law, 94 bottles of home-brew having been found in his kitchen. Mrs. Stauffer hasn't been paid yet.

Iced India Tea

is better—and safer than any other drink during hot weather. It cools the whole body without harmful effect. It stimulates the entire system. It tones up the stomach. You can easily make Iced India Tea at home, or you can try it at any soda fountain. Here is the correct way to make it:

USE
an earthenware teapot previously warmed—Put into it at least one teaspoonful of India Tea for each glass of tea—the stronger the tea the better. Be sure the water is poured into the teapot the moment it boils and allow to stand for 4 or 5 minutes to infuse—Fill each glass with cracked ice, add a slice of lemon, and pour in the tea—Add sugar to taste.

India Tea

or blends containing INDIA TEA possess unique properties which make them particularly suited to iced drinks.

Moone's Emerald Oil Must Give Complete Satisfaction

Your feet may be so swollen and inflamed that you think you can't go another step. Your shoes may feel as if they are cutting right into the flesh. You feel sick all over with the pain and torture and pray for quick relief. What's to be done?

Two or three applications of Moone's Emerald Oil and in fifteen minutes the pain and soreness disappears. A few more applications at regular intervals and the swelling reduces.

And as for Soft Corns and Calluses a few applications each night at bed time and they just seem to

$10,000,000 BOND ISSUE INDORSED IN ST. LOUIS COUNTY

$7,500,000 Suggested for Roads, $1,500,000 for Hospital, $50,000 Each for Parks and Jail.

A St. Louis County bond issue, possibly of $10,000,000 and probably to be submitted to county voters in special election next November, was vigorously indorsed by representatives of 30 commercial and civic organizations in a meeting, called by the County Chamber of Commerce, last night at Hotel Claymo, Clayton.

The 175 persons present represented every variety of organization and covered the county from Spanish Lake to Mehlville and Alton to Lexington. They authorized a Chamber of Commerce committee to continue its investigation, draw up a concrete plan, and, after consulting the chamber's board of directors, present it at another public meeting. E. G. Gion Curtis, Webster Groves Attorney and chairman of the committee, judged the plan would be ready in six weeks.

The total and its allotment are tentative. Curtis said that a plan which had gained most tentative favor in preliminary discussions called for $10,000,000, distributed as follows:

Road construction... $7,500,000
New county hospital... 1,500,000
Parks and park sites... 500,000
New county jail... 500,000
$5,000,000 Issue Defeated.

County voters in 1925 defeated a bond issue carrying $5,000,000 for good roads. Speakers, recalling this last night, urged as absolutely vital that the new proposition be kept clear of politics. The annexation question, before St. Louis and the county when the other issue came up, was the main dividing line between support or opposition to the bond issue.

The county machine, bellwether of anti-annexationists, was for the bond issue and it was openly charged that the issue was simply a smoke screen thrown up against annexation. The then Presiding Judge Smiley of the County Court declared the defeat was directly due to loss of confidence in that body which would have administered the funds and had advanced no definite plan of expenditure.

"We won't get to first base, unless we have a citizen's supervisory committee, like the one organized in the $57,000,000 St. Louis bond issue," declared Mayor Ruth of University City. "The people do not have confidence in county officials, and we must have men who stand out free of politics."

300 Miles of Concrete Roads.
Mayor Ruth estimated the road item, at $25,000 a mile, would finance 300 miles of concrete roads. He said the county now has but 55 to 60 miles of concrete, and pointed to experience with that improvement that "land values always follow good roads."

A 200-bed hospital, with its own laundry and similar equipment, ambulance service and adequate provision for isolating patients with communicable disease, could be constructed with the suggested $1,500,000 item, estimated Dr. Phillips Davis of Maplewood, who recently surveyed Eastern hospitals for a group of American Legion posts interested in obtaining a county hospital. Before the erection of the new St. Mary's Hospital, on Clayton road, county patients were cared for in the city hospital at county expense.

The ancient state of the jail was vigorously dealt with by Mrs. John Herron of Kirkwood, president of the County League of Women Voters. Miss Carol Bates, executive secretary of the Missouri Welfare League and the Rev. Francis Bloy of Grace Episcopal Church, Webster Groves.

Jail Condemned Often.
"Sentimentality will defeat us," remarked the Rev. Dr. Bloy. "Most voters think almost any place is good enough for jail prisoners. But at the same time, the jail should be decent. Grand juries have condemned it in every report since the year one. It is infested with large rats. The bathtub in the basement is out of use. Prisoners have to wash their own clothes and hang them on the bars. The stretch escapes to smite the passerby."

"In 10 years park sites will cost 10 times as much as now," diversity City civil engineer and member of the Regional Planning Commission of Greater St. Louis. A most enthusiastic speaker for county parks as well as good roads, was a farmer, George Grueninger, of Florissant.

Curtis pointed out that bonded indebtedness of the County now amounts to $1,997,000, the outstanding balance of the $2,000,000 good roads issue of 1916. He said the county, under its assessed valuation, can legally issue about $17,000,000 in addition.

Tentatively, he said, the committee had discussed a plan of issuing $4,000,000 20-year bonds in 1928 and $2,000,000 annually through 1931. Taxes would begin at 12 cents a hundred, reach a maximum of 26 cents a hundred in 1935, and decrease to 4 cents a hundred in 1948. County taxpayers now are paying 19 cents a hundred on the balance of less than $2,000,000 from the 1916 issue.

Are Your Teeth Clean All Over?

Ask your mirror! When it tells you that tartar has formed in spite of faithful brushing, does it not prove that ordinary tooth brushes do not and can not reach all the tooth surfaces?

But when you use a Clean-Be-Tween, it is a different story. With the Clean-Be-Tween you can do real up-and-down brushing. Clean-Be-Tween can be adjusted to any desired position, first this way, then this way, to reach every surface of every tooth. Foreign matter is swept from the crevices — pus collections are pressed from the gum-pockets. At first, the Clean-Be-Tween costs slightly more than ordinary tooth brushes. The handle is made of beautifully colored bakelite, nickel-silver and rust-proof monel metal. But remember, it lasts a lifetime, and renewable brush heads cost only 25c—so, in the long run this better tooth cleaning method costs you less.

The only real "up-and-down" brush

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time regardless of how much one tries to avoid it. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It cannot harm the most delicate system, and is not a habit-forming preparation. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. It does not gripe. Thousands of mothers have written us to that effect.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when a medicine like Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and gently, without gripping and harm to the system.

Keep free from constipation! It robs your strength, hardens your arteries and brings on premature old age. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to a druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Take the proper dose that night and by morning you will feel like a different person. SON-IN-LAW SUES
TO GET $4,000,000
OF GROVE ESTATE

F. L. Seely Seeks to Compel Executors to Turn Over 51 Per Cent of Stock in Paris Medicine Co.

F. L. Seely, son-in-law of E. W. Grove, multimillionaire president of the Paris Medicine Co., who died Jan. 27, filed suit yesterday in Circuit Court to compel executors of the Grove estate to surrender to him 51 per cent of the capital stock of the company,
worth about $4,000,000.
Former Supreme Judge James T.
Blair of counsel for Seely explained the suit is supplementary to a suit filed by Seely against Grove in December, 1925, and still pending. In that suit Seely asked the court to affirm in effect, an agreement made between him and Grove in 1905, whereby Seely was to remain with the firm until it was a financial success, and Grove was to make a will, giving Seely the choice of a controlling interest in the medicine company, any or Grove's other enterprises. Seely asserted certain
"general language" in an agreement made in 1917 was cited by Grove as a cancellation of the 1905 agreement. Seely asked that the "general language" be construed as having no effect on the original agreement.

Grove Denied Seely's Claim.
Grove, in answering the suit, denied ever agreeing to will Seely a controlling interest in the medicine company or his other interests. He denied that Seely was responsible for the prosperity of the company.
Seely now conducts the Grove
Park Inn and the Billmore Homespun Co. at Asheville, N. C. In the suit filed yesterday, Seely named as defendants Grove's widow and son, Mrs. Gertrude Grove and E. W.
Grove, Jr., and the St. Louis Union Trust Co. The last two are executors. He mentions the agreements of 1905 and 1917; states that he has made demand for 51 per cent of the medicine company stock,
under the terms of the 1905 agreement, and has been refused; and that the stock is closely held and not upon the market, hence he is unable to purchase a controlling interest.

Seely Not in Grove's Will.
The Paris Medicine Co., started by Grove in the '90s as a small pill business, became a financial bonanza. It is capitalized at only $100,000, but is worth about $4,000,000, Judge Blair estimated.
From another source it was learned the whole Grove estate will inventory about $11,000,000.
Grove's will placed the bulk of his estate in trust for his widow, son and daughter, who is Seely's wife. Seely was not mentioned in the will. Grove's widow since has renounced the life income created for her under the trust, and has elected to take her third of the estate outright.

JERSEYVILLE, ILL., TO PAVE
EIGHT MILES OF ITS STREETS

The city of Jerseyville, Ill., is contemplating the construction of nearly eight miles of pavement within its limits. The paving project is divided into two sections for South Jerseyville 3.7 miles and North Jerseyville 4.1 miles. The survey of the South Jerseyville project was completed several weeks ago, and the northern improvement survey has just been completed.

A public hearing was held by the Board of Local Improvements at the city hall at Jerseyville yesterday afternoon to consider the proposed South Jerseyville improvement. Pursuant to the outcome of the public hearing, an ordinance will be published establishing the exact route and dimensions of the paving. Following this ordinance, confirmation of the assessment against the abutting property owners will be sought in the County Court.

With the confirming of the assessment, advertising for bids will take place and the letting of contracts will follow. City Attorney O. H. Richards stated that barring any unforeseen obstacles, contracts possibly will be awarded and work started late in August or early in September on the south improvement.

The Woman of It

By Marguerite Moores Marshall.

Vacation—With or Without?

HERMINE, second wife of the ex-Kaiser, put it in the marriage contract. That, every year, she be allowed to take a vacation from him—No woman can blame her—The average woman, if wedded to a Hohenzollern, would want a vacation—Only she'd want to make it permanent!

But will the average American couple have more fun if they take their vacation with each other?

Or without?

"Without" is probably wiser. If you happen to be a summer-hotel-loving lady, married to a back-to-the-wilds husband, but "with" is infinitely happier. If you are a pair who not only love but like each other, if you are congenial as well as conjugal.

Maybe, if besides being a wife, a woman is the mother of one or more delicate little children. She'll have to leave town before their father, for a longer holiday. But she and he will have their best times when he can run away and make holiday with her.

We know one couple who simply count the days.

Till they can hurry off together to their hundred-year-old farmhouse.

And garden and motor and fish and loaf to their hearts' content.

It wouldn't be vacation for either of them without the other.

We know another couple who rush off every September to live in the Maine woods.

And shoot, fish and make campfires.

She's an indefatigable housekeeper and bridge player at home. But she'd rather play with her husband.

Than Palm Beach it without him. As for THE WOMAN OF IT, we wouldn't spend a vacation, even in the England where we live, to go.

If we had to spend it as a temporary widow—

We prefer a boat, a beach and a bungalow a deux.

Within commuting distance of two offices.

When two who love each other make holiday together, they can forget the strains of work.

They can be to each other what love meant to be, and take a real vacation from friction and misunderstanding and pain.

Silhouette—After Graduation.

On my way to one of New York's high schools I met the friendly policeman, and asked him in what direction I ought to go. "Oh," said he, "do you go to that high school?"

"No, but I'm going to ask if I may teach there."

"I suppose," he commented, "high school teachers make a lot of money, lots more than public school teachers."

"Oh, yes, they do. Why, certainly. The young graduate makes as much as $19.50 a week—that is, if she's lucky enough to get a chance to teach."

The gallant and sympathetic policeman smiled his best Irish smile. "It doesn't pay to study any more these days, does it?" he said.

DORA ALBERT.

Oh, well, we know a Princeton man who is just beginning his first job at $25 a week. These are some of the things he's planning to do:

Take half an apartment. Join his college club. Buy a Panama hat. Buy a fall topcoat—he can't "see" anything under $50.

Go to a tailor for new evening clothes. Attend his college football games this fall.

And yet WOMEN are always being accused of extravagance and of having no sense of the value of money!

A FANTASY

Week-end is a popular sport. Especially with the younger set. And, since I was unable to resist the pleas of so many of my friends, I, too, found myself among the week-enders.

I came, I saw, but I did not conquer.

For the young men peeped and petted. Then pet came more. And, since this is a sport I do not indulge in, I became an outcast indeed.

Then came an evening. With the stars and the moon vying with each other. To add to the glory of a perfect night. The stillness of the air lulled me and I sat enchanted. Though unthought and unperceived. Suddenly—tall figure loomed before me!

Even in the darkness I could tell he was rather good-looking. "Pet!" "Sorry," was all I answered. "Thank heaven for Saturday," said my hero.

JEWELLERY BADER.

THESE CONJUGAL CASSANDRAS. "I knew he'd do it," Mrs. Dick Grace is said to have remarked when her husband's plane crashed as he hopped off from Hawaii to California. "That's grimly commented the Lyons' husband, 'in what 999 wives out of 1000 know when their husbands crash!'"

What Fashionables at Newport Are Wearing This Season

Sketches at Bailey Beach by Helen Worden.

ORCHIDS and shades of purple

dominated the colors of Bailey's Beach, Newport, on the coast, overcast days of last week-end. Under the huge beach umbrellas, sheltering groups of laughing people, we found the women dressed informally and the men lounging about in old clothes.

Helen Michell favored the two-piece frock developed in orchid crepe, the blouse of lighter hue being worn over a skirt of purple. Miss Michell's features were hidden by a wide-brimmed hat of black Milan straw. Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs passed us in a two-piece bathing suit of orchid silk, accented by silk stockings and a cap of purple, and we caught a glimpse of Robert Goeliet wearing a comfortable gray tweed suit and reclining in a beach chair.

The large but simply patterned plaid crepes and chiffons are being worn at Dequerville and Les Hales. We learn from Paris. Mrs. David Wagstaff reminds us that she spoke of the smartness of plaids for sportswear when she docked last spring and recalls to us her frock of pink plaid mohair. Again we find plaids in evidence, this time at Newport. We meet Marie Weeks wearing a frock of blue and red plaid silk, topped off by a large black straw hat.

Byron and Robespierre furnish the style for several lovely bobs of the moment. Perhaps the most charming coiffure is that of Mrs. Leslie Morris, who wears her dark auburn locks after the fashion of Byron. And reminiscent of Robespierre is the hair-dress of the Hon. Mrs. John Francis Amherst Cecil (the former Cornelia Vanderbilt).

RECIPES FROM "My Old Virginia Cook Book"

Peanut Wafers.

TAKE 3/4 cup of butter; 1 1/2 cups of light brown sugar; 1 egg; 1/2 teaspoonful of salt; 1/2 teaspoonful of soda; 3 tablespoonfuls of milk; about 3 cups flour (more may be required); and 1 quart of peanuts. Cream the butter and sugar and add the beaten egg. Then the milk in which the salt and soda have been dissolved. Now shell, skin and chop the peanuts. Add half of them to the mixture and enough flour to roll (about 3 cups). Put a portion of the mixture on a well-greased and slightly floured baking sheet and pat or roll it to about 1/4 of an inch in thickness. Then sprinkle with peanuts and bake in a hot oven about 8 or 10 minutes. Cut into strips 1 inch by 2 inches. Repeat until all of the mixture is used. (Copyright, 1927.)

Orchid and Shades of Purple at Bailey's Beach

—Byron and Robespierre Furnish the Style for Bobs of the Moment—Skirts Shorter Than in Paris.

Also sailing on the Olympic were Mrs. Davis Elkins and her husband, the Senator. Accenting the wood brown of her hair, Mrs. Elkins selects oocoo brown for the color and satin back crepe for the material of her ensemble.

The blouse and circular skirt are primed with the reverse side of the satin. With the costume Mrs. Elkins wears a vagabond hat of brown felt, a small sable scarf (we find the small neck-pieces very smart, and a welcome change from the huge fox scarfs usually worn) and beige shoes and hose.

Over a frock of brown flowered chiffon, Mrs. Jack Baragwanath (Neyna McMein) throws a top coat of rough gray tweed. She is bound for the Island Club and is motoring up with Sally Farnum.

The occasion is a party for Hugh Wiley.

Discussing materials and colors worn at that barometer of fashion, Les Hales, we are told that white prevailed. Mme. Georgette, the couturiere, was dressed entirely in white, and turning from the races to the Paris fete, Nuit de Paris, we find Chantal featuring white. Dining at the Pavillon Marguerite Tuesday evening, we see Mrs. Truman Laurence Saunders clad in a white crepe dinner gown heavily trimmed with long silk fringe. Her wrap of silver is embroidered in roses and she wears silver slippers.

Red is a favorite color with the Countess de Marenches, and very daring is the combination of red and gold Paul Poirot chooses for her evening ensemble. The frock shades from red to pale pink chiffon and is worn with a wrap of cloth of gold combined with red.

When we asked the Countess if the French drew the hem-line above or below the knee, she replied that the skirts were shorter here than in Paris. She feels that sport frocks are especially adapted to American women and that far better ones can be had here than abroad. Another interesting point we discussed with her was millinery. For the present, in Paris, crowns are lower, brims are wide and the same width all the way around, in contrast with the broad-brimmed scoop hats so much in evidence at the moment. Coarse loosely woven straws are also very popular.

Behind a huge orange ostrich feather fan we discover the plumed features of Minta Arbuckle at the Park Central Roof Party Tuesday night. Mrs. Arbuckle is wearing a dinner gown of sequins forming a Paisley pattern and mounted on black net. We like the evening square of black net embroidered in gold beads Mrs. Arbuckle carries. It comes from India, she tells us.

THIS is a very simple rule in skin care. Yet credited with more beautiful complexion than any other known. Youth is thus preserved, the charm of natural loveliness cultivated.

Wash the face gently with Palmolive. Massage its balmy olive and palm oil lather into the skin. Rinse with warm water; then with cold. That is nature's rule for keeping that schoolgirl complexion.

Largely on expert advice, millions use Palmolive Soap as above. And touch their faces with no other. For it's a true complexion soap, made of cosmetic oils; for one purpose only—to protect and beautify the skin.

Use that way regularly—particularly before bed. Note how much better your skin in even one week. Use powder and make-up all you like. Never leave them on over night. Use no other on your face. Crude imitations, represented to be of olive and palm oils, are not the same as Palmolive. Remember that. The Palmolive-Pet Co., Chicago, U.S.A.

The Summer Table

By WANDA BARTON.

THE setting of the summer table demands the utmost care. The first consideration is the linen. If laundering linen is a problem, there are mat sets in fine oilecloth. Chinese woven straw mats or paper sets may be used instead. The one thing is, have them fresh and clean.

The simpler the table is set, the easier it will be to keep it fresh and dainty. If the table is small, for two or even four covers, the large center piece is not used, whether floral or otherwise. A center vase or small bowl of flowers with four candlesticks as closely set as possible is an ideal arrangement.

The plate dinner, or individual service simplifies the service, leaving the table almost clear, which always seems cooler. The use of all crystal lemonade or iced tea sets are cool and attractive looking and may be left on the table during the meal. The entire glass service is lovely for summer use, if one wants to replace the familiar china with it for the hot months. It is really not as fragile as it looks, but it must be carefully washed and polished to keep it glistening.

Hardy flowers that do not wilt quickly should be chosen for decoration. Lilies of different varieties kept well in bowls filled with damp white sand and may be easily pressed into it so they stand upright. Soft ferns with the flowers minings and decorations, glass or plain white dishes are the coolest looking. The deeper colors are always suggestive of winter tables.

The Development Of Social Capacity

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D.,
Former President of the American Medical Association.

YOU may be so unfortunate as to have a child with criminal tendencies. If you have been unfortunate enough to escape this calamity you are still interested in the youthful offender. You, therefore, are not only the youthful offender himself, but yourself and the community from the burden of his misdeeds. You, therefore, are not only the youthful offender himself, but yourself and the community from the burden of his misdeeds. You, therefore, are not only the youthful offender himself, but yourself and the community from the burden of his misdeeds.

The Borstal Institution in Great Britain is one of the best known and most enlightened of all reformatories for young offenders. It has saved many thousands from developing into criminals.

A boy who commits an offense may be sent to school at Borstal for a term of years at the discretion of the magistrate. There he receives a training that will probably succeed in making a good citizen of him.

Among the problems of those who have to govern the Borstal school the greatest is perhaps the last which is summarized by two questions that the institution has to answer in its report to the legal authorities, in the words of the inmate desire to do "what ought to be done" and "What ought to be done?"

They take care that a lad who is about to leave is with routine to ability to comply with the law. The real test is the test of life, and the criterion of deficiency is not an intellectual but a social one.

The physical weakness, e. g., a person with a predisposition to tuberculosis or heart disease, cannot reasonably be expected to thrive unless he placed under a more or less favorable hygienic conditions.

Few people, however, recognize that those whose weakness lies in the mind and is shown by the under-development of their social consciousness and their low capacity for social adaptation, need also to live in a permanent "selected" environment.

The ordinary person finds it difficult to imagine that any human being can really lack a mental quality necessary for existence in a modern social state, unless he is definitely mentally defective or insane.

Now, as pointed out by Jarrett (Lancet), it is certainly a difficult task, to place all the nation's physical weaklings under perfect environmental conditions, but the problem of successfully placing mental weaklings is infinitely harder.

The "social" weakling may be placed in a position in which ninety-nine other citizens are making good, and when the day comes that his employer places a dollar bill on the office table, he alone of the hundred will take it, and probably will really not know quite why he has done it.

The scientific psychologist has decided that the cause lies in some sort of complex, or going to the pictures, or wearing hobnailed boots.

The truth is that the delinquent is a unique human being with a peculiar constitution. If the axle of a motor car breaks, the fault is essentially in the axle and not in the road. Conduct and misconduct are always in the last resort the outcome of the mental life, and the mental life is the innate mental constitution, e. g., his capacity for social adaptation.

The Binet scale errs through regarding a purely verbal morality. The Porteus maze test is a test of action, which alone affords any real guide to the patient's mental constitution. It necessitates that he should act in the face of a concrete situation in such a manner as may reveal with some faithfulness the presence or absence of qualities necessary for social success. This task is applied by determining the behavioristic reaction of the individual to certain environmental stimuli. It consists of a course of training to develop the inhibitions in the presence of certain definite reactions.

No More Dazzle.

NEW YORK—Momentarily we are done with dazzle. The evening frocks of the moment have gotten away from the straight silhouette created with beads, sequins, rhinestones and flashing ornaments. They have turned to the full skirts which, at last, are considerably graceful and becoming while the wearer is dancing. Taffetas and silk silks are especially adapted for this type of dance frock, while chiffon, printed or plain, is always popular because it is so youthful looking.

Accorded Sport Hats.

NEW YORK—Ed Wynne probably would be surprised to know he was a creator of feminine fashions, but a trick hat he wore in vaudeville years ago is the direct predecessor of the newest sport headgear. This hat is of fine felt and has a fur crown which may be extended or compressed, dented, creased or pleated at the wearer's wish. Also it has a brim that goes up and down.

Dressed to Look Undressed.

NEW YORK—No matter how decorous a frock may really be, to the smart it must seem to be just a little risque. That is the secret of the popularity of some of the black shawl-like lace dresses. The bodices of these costumes are lined with flesh colored chiffon, while the skirts are composed of a number of flounces of lace over a flesh silk.

—Old Mother Nature.

The water was very shallow around the last stone on which he landed.

STRAIGHT over to Smiling Pool trotted Mrs. Coyote, and behind her trotted Old Man Coyote. Bowser the Hound was still so far behind them that they didn't have to run fast. When they reached the Smiling Pool Old Man Coyote said, "Now, my dear, I want you to run along just in the edge of the water and go down the Laughing Brook. Stay there until you hear Bowser the Hound way up in the Green Forest. Then go straight home and I'll meet you there in the Old Pasture."

Now Mrs. Coyote had learned that Old Man Coyote knew a great deal more about the Green Meadows and the Green Forest and the Old Pasture than she could hope to know for a long time, so she didn't question him at all. She did just as he told her. When they reached the Smiling Pool she waded along in the water until she came to where the Laughing Brook left the Smiling Pool. She kept on down this, walking along at the edge of the water, until she was hidden from the Smiling Pool by the bushes. Then she lay down in the midst of some ferns where she could watch what would happen when Bowser the Hound came along.

She saw Old Man Coyote sit down and wait until Bowser was quite near. Then she saw him get up, stretch and yawn in the most impudent way, and then trot off up the Laughing Brook toward the Green Forest. My, how excited Bowser was! The scent of Old Man Coyote was so fresh and strong that Bowser never once noticed that it was now the scent of one Coyote and not of two. "Bow-wow-wow!" he roared as he disappeared in the bushes up the Laughing Brook. Old Man Coyote kept just ahead in the most provoking way. Up, up into the Green Forest he led him. Then, when he was satisfied that Bowser would not be likely to go back, Old Man Coyote jumped from stone to stone in the Laughing Brook until he was some distance from where he had first begun to make these jumps. The water was very shallow around the last stone on which he landed. Old Man Coyote just stepped off into the water and walked along in the water at the edge of the brook for quite a little distance. At last he came to a little waterfall. Just above it was a big flat stone. From this stone to the opposite shore a fallen tree hens were out of the henyard, for they had been allowed out to hunt for worms and crickets and grasshoppers in the dooryard. Not far away was a plump hen. That hen never knew what happened. Before you could snap your fingers Old Man Coyote had her and was racing away straight toward the Old Pasture, where he knew Mrs. Coyote was waiting.

"I wish I could carry two," muttered Old Man Coyote. And then a bright idea came to him. He dropped the hen he was carrying just back of a clump of tall grass. Like a flash he turned on, headed straight back toward that dooryard.

Keep Your Face
Young Looking

When the pores are sluggish and the skin dry and parched, the face becomes worn and haggard. To remove the discolored skin and cleanse the pores, use pure mercurized wax.

Obtain an ounce at any drug store or beauty counter, and use as directed. The wax absorbs the aged, blotchy, soiled skin, peeling it off a little at a time, until freckles, tan, blackheads and all have disappeared. The underneath skin blossoms forth, clear, fresh and velvety and the face looks more girlish. Mercurized wax brings out the hidden beauty.

Always the Buckle.

NEW YORK—Never leave a buckle alone. That seems the motto of the shoe makers at present. They are still intrigued by the Colonial or Elizabethan buckle but they have multiplied it by three and four. These buckles interlink and extend from high on the instep to the toe of the slippers.

Charm With Your Clear, White Skin

No woman can be truly beautiful without a clear complexion. And there is nothing so alluring, so quick to attract admiration as a youthfully white smooth skin. It is the essence of feminine charm. Keep your skin crystal white—always—have a flawless, dazzling complexion. For now a new, easy, safe treatment has been discovered that cleans and whitenes your skin almost overnight. Already a million women are using it. Blackheads, freckles, saltiness and all blemishes vanish as if by magic. Right before bedtime smooth this cool, fragrant cream on your skin. Unless it positively cleans and whitenes your skin in five days, your money will be refunded. At all good drug and department stores.

What kind of people do employers like to have around them?

Certainly not people with Halitosis (unpleasant breath). You couldn't blame a man for firing an employee with Halitosis to hire one without it. Why not keep yourself continually on the safe and polite side by daily rinsing the mouth with Listerine, the safe antiseptic?

Immediately it destroys mouth odors—even strong ones like that of the onion.

Thousands who used to be unwelcome because of Halitosis now can go anywhere.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

"IN ABSENCE."

WHEN you are gone the same gold sun shines out the same buds quicken and the same birds sing; and yet it is as though a mist of doubt had dropped its subtle veil round Earth's green ring. No longer does a perfect glory gild the yellow rose beside the fountain's rim, no longer is the garden's silence thrilled with matchless song from feathered throats—a hymn. But, strangely, through the summer sunlight creeps a hint of shade that dims its flawless light, and where the lily in the garden sleeps, pain dulls the lily's one-time keen delight. When you are gone, the wide world suffers loss, no beauty and no rapture are the same; but well I know with your return this dross will all be purged away by joy's white flame!

A Box of Pleats.

NEW YORK—There is nothing new in a box pleat except what we find in the box. These methods of decoration, however, still remain popular and are frequently lined with the same material as the dress, but in a different shade. The contrast becomes apparent when the wearer moves. Collars and cuffs are usually of the same shade as the inside of the pleats.

PLENTY OF EVIDENCE.

ON a close and humid day a large ragged colored man was brought to the bar of the Atlanta police court.

"Well, boy, what have you been doing?" demanded the Judge.

"Me, boss? Hub, I ain't been doin' nothin'."

"Well, what are you charged with?"

"Jedge, I misremembers de poract word but de pliceman shut rested me he called it somethin' whut sounded to me lak 'frag-rancy'."

"You're guilty!" he declared. "Ten days for you—and somebody back there open a couple of those windows!"

CHAPTER XXVII

THE Cohens arrived early in the afternoon to call on their friend Solomon Levy. When he opened the door of his brownstone house in the Bronx they were puzzled at the look on his face. He did not seem happy.

He volunteered a few perfunctory, almost formal words of greeting, and saw them seated in the living room; then said: "Pity, to excuse me for a few minutes. I want to find Sarah. Someone called and she couldn't get a message. I think it was Able. He was not at work all day."

The Cohens, exchanging glances, were silent.

"He seems worried," said Mrs. Cohen, as their host disappeared down the hall.

Isaac Cohen sighed and leaned back, surveying the spacious living room.

It was well furnished, not extravagantly, but showing the taste of a prosperous business man. No particular period had been followed in the furnishings. There were Japanese hangings on the walls, an overstuffed couch and chairs, a wicker table, orange-colored curtains on brass rods over the windows. The living room gave into the entrance hall.

"Why don't you answer me?" demanded Mrs. Cohen, who sat stiff and straight in a chair near the wicker table.

"What is it to say?" asked Isaac Cohen, with a deprecating snarl of his shoulders and a spreading of his palms.

"What is it to say?" asked Isaac Cohen, with a deprecating snarl of his shoulders and a spreading of his palms.

The Greatest Story in the World—By Kor

And it came to pass in process of time, that the king of Egypt died; and the children of Israel sighed by reason of the bondage, and they cried, and their cry came up unto God by reason of the bond-

And God heard their groaning, and God remembered his covenant with Abraham, with Isaac, and with Jacob. And God looked upon the children of Israel, and God had respect unto them.

The Bible in Pictures

Now Moses kept the flock of Jethro his father-in-law, the priest of Midian; and he led the flock to the backside of the desert, and came to the mountain of God, even to Horeb. And the angel of the Lord appeared unto him in a flame of fire out of the midst of a bush.

DO you realize that a mere fraction of a cent's worth of Chipso will mean—dishes done one-third quicker?

With three dishwashings, this means a precious half-hour added to your day!

How does Chipso save this time?

Chipso is fine flakes of real soap—not granules, not powder, but soap. Chipso suds instantly at the touch of hot water—no more soap-shaking, no more rubbing of cake soap. The suds are honestly lasting and they dissolve grease with lightning speed.

This tested method saves more time

With Chipso, your dishwashing is therefore bound to be quicker, in any case.

But for greatest time-saving, let us suggest this tested method:

Make your Chipso suds. Then put in your glass and silver. While you rinse and dry them, have your china soaking in the same suds—it will be practically clean, the grease and food traces all dissolved, when you've finished the glass and silver. While you rinse and wipe the china, soak the cooking utensils, using more Chipso if necessary to enrich the suds.

Millions of women know how much quicker and simpler dishwashing is this way. And they find the big blue-and-orange box of Chipso does a month's dishwashing—at less than a cent a day!

UNDER-COVER MEN
CONFESS PERJURY
IN LIQUOR CASES

Two Informers in Pay of Washington Dry Squad Walk Into Trap Set for Them by Police.

RECEIVED $2.50 FOR EACH VICTIM

District Attorney Orders Dismissal of 20 Pending Charges Based on Their Evidence.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—Two of prohibition's under cover men were uncovered yesterday. They pleaded guilty to having perjured themselves in giving evidence against alleged bootleggers, and were locked up in default of $5000 bonds each. As a result of their admissions, about 20 pending cases in which they were expected to be star witnesses, will be dismissed.

The case is one of the most amazing which has developed under the Volstead Act. Among its interesting aspects is the disclosure that the dry squad of the Washington police department has been accustomed to employ informers and to pay them $2.50 for each case they brought in. A natural consequence is seen in the present affair, one of the two men claiming that he "framed up" bogus cases in order to make enough money to support his family.

Recommended by "Snoopers"

Charles D. Davis, 28 years old, and Jesse J. Hall, 22, are the men. Davis was employed recently upon the recommendation of Henry M. Douthitt, field secretary of the Citizens' Service Association, the celebrated "Snoopers' Society" organized by local clergymen and church members to assist the police in enforcing the prohibition laws. Subsequently Hall was recommended by Davis.

After the arrest and confession of Davis and Hall, Douthitt and the clergymen immediately repudiated them, but Douthitt admitted that in claiming credit a few days ago for a large number of cases reported to the police, the association had included all those turned in by Davis.

Caught in a trap like that which they were accustomed to set for others, Davis and Hall at first protested their innocence, but when shown that the game was up, made full confessions, pleaded guilty to the charge of perjury, and were bound over to the grand jury. None of their church sponsors offered to furnish bail for them.

How the Trap Was Set.

The entrapment of the under cover men was a spectacular piece of work. Sergeant James Little, head of the police dry squad, recently became suspicious of the manner in which Davis and Hall were producing evidence, and as a result of his investigation, an official in the prosecuting attorney's office also complained that serious inconsistencies had appeared in their stories.

Chief among their duties was that of making purchases of liquor. The custom was then to appear before a United States Commissioner, and make affidavit to the fact of purchase, whereupon a search warrant would be issued, and a raid of the premises conducted by members of the dry squad.

Saturday morning Serg. Little gave Davis and Hall the address of a house on L street, Southeast, and told them that it was the residence of Danny Mills, suspected bootlegger. They were instructed to visit the place that afternoon and endeavor to make a purchase. Previously, however, Little took them to the spot and pointed out the house to be certain there was no mistake.

As a matter of fact, the house is the home of Patrolman Curtis. Danny Mills was a police inspector, inside was a fiction. Stationed there were a police inspector, a captain, and two patrolmen, one of whom was dressed in rough clothes. He was to personate Danny Mills when the under cover men appeared, and was to refuse to sell them any liquor.

Proving the Fraud.

Throughout the afternoon the officers waited in vain for Davis and Hall to appear. They were still waiting at 5 o'clock when Serg. Little telephoned them they could go off duty.

Soon after 4 o'clock Davis and Hall had appeared at the station with a pint of whisky, which they said they had bought from Danny Mills at the L street house.

"It was as easy as rolling off a log," Davis declared. He added that, in addition to a stock of bottled goods, they had seen half a gallon of whisky on the premises. Serg. Little asked them if they were sure about the house and about Danny Mills. They affirmed emphatically that they were. He

AIR MAIL AND PASSENGER LINE TO SOUTH AMERICA PLANNED

Key West-Havana Airplane Route, Starting Oct. 1, First Step in New 1555-Mile Service, Contractor Says.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—The Key West-Havana airplane route, for which Postmaster General New has just awarded a contract to the Pan-American Airways, Inc., New York, is the first step of a 1555-mile Central and South American service for mail and passengers. John K. Montgomery, vice president of the corporation, announced after a conference with air mail officials.

The proposed service will link the United States, Cuba, British Honduras, Guatemala, Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua, Costa Rica, Panama and the Canal Zone and make connections with existing services to the west and north coasts of South America, saving passengers and mails considerable time by placing them in New York about four days from Panama.

It is contemplated operating a tri-weekly service between Panama and the United States thereby giving passenger and mail service to the Central American countries which now depend on weekly or fortnightly steamship services.

Havana Service Starts Oct. 17. Operation of the Key West-Havana air mail service will start about Oct. 1. Montgomery told postal officials. The corporation is having three Fokker airplanes, each with three engines, built for that service and hopes to be carrying passengers and mails from Florida to Cuba by that time. The Cuban Government, according to Montgomery, has entered into an agreement with the Pan-American Airways for carrying the mail between Havana and Key West, as the American contract provides for carrying the mail southward only. Cuba will charge 5 cents for letters carried by air between the two cities and intends issuing a special air mail stamp.

Eight Flying Boats Planned. For its Central and South American service, the corporation is working on plans for eight large flying boats, each with two or three motors and capable of carrying a 3500-pound payload. Montgomery said. The route will be from Key West to Havana, leaving in the morning and continuing to Belize, British Honduras, and thence to Puerto Barrios, Guatemala, the rail head for Guatemala City. An overnight stop will be made at Puerto Barrios and the voyage would be continued the following morning across to the Pacific at La Union, Salvador, the rail head for San Salvador. The next jump will be to Managua, Nicaragua, thence over Lakes Managua and Nicaragua and down the San Juan River to the Gulf of Mexico and along the coast to Port Limon, Costa Rica, and thence to San Jose. The coast line then will be followed to Colon where connection will be made with a line across the Canal Zone to Panama. On north bound trips the same route will be followed with an overnight stop at La Union, Salvador.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Two more American aviators today possess that coveted honor of the air—the distinguished flying cross—highest trophy of American aeronautics.

Curtis D. Wilbur, Secretary of the Navy, last night pinned crosses on the breasts of Commander Richard E. Byrd Jr. and Lieut. George O. Noville, for flying the America from New York to France under adverse conditions. The presentation, which came as a surprise, was made at a municipal banquet.

Clarence D. Chamberlin, pilot of the Columbia that plowed through fog to win its way to Germany, Bert Acosta, and Bernt Balchen, shipmates of Byrd and Noville, witnessed the ceremony.

Recognition for Civilians. Mayor Walker, toastmaster, suggested that Balchen, Acosta and Chamberlin be awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross as well. Only members of the Army and Navy can be awarded the cross.

Wilbur expressed the hope that "in view of the necessity for the development of commercial aviation, some of the best of our countrymen should be provided by Congress for the civilian flyers."

Commander Byrd expressed his pleasure at the Secretary's statement, and declared that Balchen, Acosta, and Balchen deserve the honor "as much as we do, if not more."

Describes Ocean Flight. Chamberlin humorously described a trans-Atlantic flight as comparatively a simple matter. "Most anybody," he said, "can fly the first 15 hours. That's no trick at all. And after that all you have to do is look down at the ocean and then recall that it is just as far back to America as it is ahead to Europe."

Commander Byrd sketched the results of his flight in a scientific data gathered in long hours without sight of land or water, and predicted trans-Atlantic flights on a regular commercial basis within 10 years.

The ceremony took place in the same room in which Col. Lindbergh was awarded similar honor. Balchen presides Lindbergh.

Byrd and Balchen were the only flyers to set in the planes, the Colonel flying a Fokker Universal and Balchen flying a Fokker Tri-motor.

Balchen said "he's a great pilot." He said that he and Noville spent Monday night at Anthony H. G. Fokker's home at Englewood, N. J., and was up early to make test flights.

Balchen said he would fly Commander Byrd's Antarctic plane from the factory at Amsterdam to Sandefjord, near Oslo, Norway, where it will be placed aboard the ship that is to bring it to America.

Balchen hopes to be able to see his "folks" while in Norway.

AMENDMENT PROPOSED FOR PHILIPPINES' INDEPENDENCE

U. S. AND BRITAIN
TWO INCHES APART
IN NAVAL PARLEY

Former's Insistence on 8-Inch Instead of 6-Inch Guns May Be Submitted to English Cabinet.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, Switzerland, July 20.—"Business as usual," the British motto in the early war days was appropriated by Hugh S. Gibson today to describe the attitude and intentions of the American delegation to the three-power naval reduction conference during the time the two British plenipotentiaries are detained in London talking with Premier Baldwin and the rest of the cabinet.

When it became known that W. C. Bridgman and Lord Cull, the chief British delegates, were going to London, there was some conjecture as to the real reason, but the fears of the pessimists were allayed when they merely been invited by the Prime Minister for a final discussion on the naval situation before he leaves for Canada Saturday with the Prince of Wales.

"Light Housework" to Be Done. Gibson, as chief American delegate, subsequently asked that the departure of the two British leaders, be not looked upon as an adjournment of the conference, but only as a temporary suspension of negotiations. In view of the fact that Admirals Sir Frederick and Field and Sir Aubrey Smith and most of the British technical experts remain behind, the Americans feel that considerable of what Gibson terms "light housework" can be done with the aid of the Japanese technicians in hand.

The British plenipotentiaries may find minor matters fairly well cleared up by the time they return.

Two Inches Apart. Nevertheless, while the minor details are being done, a close watch will be kept on London to learn how the British Cabinet is receiving the reported determination of the United States not to accept a ratio of twelve 1000-ton cruisers armed with 8-inch guns for Great Britain and the United States, and eight for Japan, unless the United States is authorized to mount 8-inch guns on lighter cruisers also.

The American delegation is seeking to build 8000-ton cruisers on which 8-inch guns could be placed, while the British have been standing firm on low-tonnage cruisers with 6-inch guns.

Balchen spokesman said: "One Japanese will want to build as many 8-inch gun cruisers as the United States, and if the United States insists on constructing a considerable number of these ships, the Japanese will possibly keep within the total tonnage figures recently proposed."

Obsolete Cruiser Proposal. In the meantime, fresh difficulty has arisen in connection with the maintenance of obsolete cruisers as proposed by the British—these obsolete vessels to be over and above the regular treaty-fixed total tonnage. Originally the British suggested that the United States agree to scrap 10 of their obsolete warship proposals, the Japanese favored accepting the Japanese age limit of 15.

One Japanese said that this was the joker in the proposal, as cruisers would be regarded as obsolete at that age then kept in service as auxiliary craft for a period of eight years, during which, under the original British suggestion, they could be considered as still of fighting value.

The Americans, however, seem to feel this question of obsolete cruisers can be settled by specifying the exact number and character of ships which fall under this category.

A spokesman for the Japanese said Tokio would accept any compromise satisfactory to the United States.

THIRD TERM UNPOPULAR
IN WEST, MOSES DECLARES

New Hampshire G. O. P. Senator Finds Sentiment Against It Although He Thinks Coolidge Can Be Re-elected.

By CHARLES MICHELSON, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—One peregrinating Republican statesman has returned to the East after a tour of the country without finding a unanimous demand that Calvin Coolidge be made President for a third time.

United States Senator George Moses of New Hampshire declares he found in the West, and particularly the Northwest, a "surprisingly vigorous opinion" that the President ought not aspire to what is universally referred to as a "third term."

The Senator thinks Coolidge can be re-elected and elected, but he adds: "The price might be a sullenly accepted administration, which could bode no good to the President. It's Republican party or to the country. Perhaps my own reputation as an anti-Roosevelt turner, dating from Tanti-Roosevelt days, was the reason that Mr. Coolidge's 1923 intentions invariably bobbed up in the political discussions that I bumped into wherever I went."

"There can be no doubt that the possibility of his re-nomination fills a good many Republicans beyond the Mississippi with anxiety. They are the ones who belong to the distinguished minority which thinks the President in due course will withdraw himself."

On his way West, through the bucolic country, a month ago, Moses found them all talking about the McNary-Haugen bill. He voted against that chapter in the farm bible, but he says, "everybody I talked to was greatly concerned over what the St. Paul farm meeting this month would bring forth. There seemed to be a feeling that if the what and certain belt people who went to that meeting remained wedded to McNary-Haugen, the political effect on Mr. Coolidge's political fortunes would be serious. If not disastrous, it would be a serious setback to his authority. Information is that he belittled the American. Their bombs and airplanes 'only made a noise,' he told his band. However, it was the American bombing airplanes that turned the scale in favor of the Marines, for, coming to aid the greatly outnumbered garrison, five of these aircraft raked the rebels with machine guns and pelted them with bombs, killing 200 of them. The Marines and Constabulary killed 100 others. These figures have been confirmed by Col. L. M. Guilek of the Fifth Regiment of Marines, and late advice from Ocotul indicate that the total of dead may be even higher, since some wounded rebels crawled into the woods to die."

VIENNA, July 20.—Now that order has been restored after the rioting that broke out in Vienna Friday, the authorities are seeking to punish the instigators and leaders. Nearly 300 persons have been arrested, and of these 100 have already been brought before the courts for preliminary examination.

Heavy penal sentences will be given to those found guilty of participating in the uprising, which it was announced, resulted in the death of 37 persons, the wounding of 400, and damage to public and private property estimated at millions of dollars.

Sixty victims of the rioting were buried in a common plot in the public cemetery on the outskirts of the city today. There were no demonstrations of any kind.

Thirty-nine others who were killed in the disorders, including 11 policemen, will be buried tomorrow.

On an oration at the graveside, the Communist leaders said that the dead comrades had led the way where more timid members of the party dared not follow. Dr. Friedrich Adler, secretary of the International Labor Union, said that he had been deputed to utter a greeting to the workmen of every state afflicted with the greatest world union. At the graveside of the fallen comrades, he declared, they repeated their oaths of solidarity.

U. S. MARINE IN HAITI QUILTS POST, SHOTS 3 PERSONS

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Charge d'affaires Christian Brown at Port-au-Prince, Haiti, reported to the State Department last night that Marine Private J. M. Branki then returned to the Legation, the report said, and continued firing at random from a balcony, several shots coming close to a gendarme's office who was approaching to arrest him. The marine is to go on bail within a few days. Gross as

SANDINO, ROUTED

GOES INTO HIDING

Remnants of His Force of 400 Scattered After 300 Were Killed at Ocotul, Nicaragua.

By the Associated Press.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, July 20.—Gen. Sandino, self-termed "wild beast of the mountains," whose force of 400 lost 300 killed Sunday while trying to overcome 98 United States Marines and Native Constabulary at Ocotul, has a safe hiding in the mountains in an inaccessible part of the country. His forces are widely scattered.

Having refused to lay down his arms when a peace settlement was arranged, President Coolidge's agent, Silmon, between the Conservatives and Liberals in May, Sandino continues to defy American authority. Information is that he belittled the American. Their bombs and airplanes "only made a noise," he told his band. ## Note on Nicaragua.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
A FEW weeks ago the State Department informed us that the marines were being withdrawn from Nicaragua gradually. Our stuffed-shirt choice for President of that unhappy country was secure in the saddle, or whatever he sits on, and in the hearts of his countrymen, not to mention the good graces of our State Department.

Yet press dispatches in Monday's paper tell of the routing of 400 Nicaraguan rebels by marines aided by bombing planes. The State Department says the leader of the rebels is a bandit who was trying to seize American property. At least there is some justification for the State Department's excuse that the marines were protecting American property, only the excuse comes six months after the accomplished fact.

If Dias cannot maintain order in that war-torn country, could we not dispense with Nicaragua's Constitution entirely and elect a Captain for the Marine Corps president de facto? Whatever the outcome of the imbroglio, it would be a distinct addition to the ways of diplomacy to have the State Department announce the real reason for any intervention.

At Cherry Hill.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
SACCO and Vanzetti are now at Cherry Hill. What is Cherry Hill? It is a hell-place. It is the last place. It is the place where men are sent condemned to die.

At midnight on July 1, without warning, they were waked up, dragged from their beds and told to dress. They were not even allowed to gather up their papers and books. They were handcuffed together and rushed to this dreadful place—alone—each one alone in solitary confinement is held there in the constant presence of death. How can they live long enough to be saved? The agony of mind must be even greater for men believably innocent.

Fast Gas Meters.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
I WOULD like to advise all consumers of gas to have their meters tested by the city. I think it will pay them to do so. To all that are unfamiliar with the procedure, all you have to do is notify the city lighting department, room 212, city hall, and deposit a dollar. If the meter is found incorrect, your dollar will be refunded.

I had mine tested and it was found to be 4.16 per cent fast. Now I am expected to have all gas bills paid under this old meter for one year. They amount to $45.82; 4.16 per cent of this is about $1.90. The gas company wants to give me 60 cents, which I refuse to accept. I mean to collect $1.90. The average per month for 12 months under the old meter was about $3.82. My last bill under the new meter was $2.50, so it is plain to see I was paying for a lot of gas I never used.

The gas company, in refusing to pay but 60 cents, claims it has been decided 90 days back is sufficient to cover all discrepancies. Now I am trying to find out who did this. I decided it is a matter that should be looked into by the city for the benefit of the public.

Picking on the Little Fellow.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
WITH great indignation I read of the new slaughter committed by American marines against the defenseless people of Nicaragua. If Wall Street really wants war, I would suggest it start something with Japan, for instance, or at least with a country able to put up a real scrap. Why always pick on the little fellow?

Sour Note From Sunny California.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
AFTER living in St. Louis for years, we decided to come to California about seven months ago. My husband has never been able to get employment, though he has a good trade. The newspapers are boasting everything California so much that thousands of eastern people are coming here only to be met with real estate sharks who grab all they can. I'll tell you it's a pitiful sight to see the city parks full of idle men and hundreds standing around the employment offices. All they have to offer you is dishwashing or milkers' jobs. The Chamber of Commerce has offices in Chicago and is boasting this wonderful city of Los Angeles. They tell of the wonderful sun-kissed fruit and walnut groves. All you have to do is buy one of the Los Angeles morning papers and you will see page after page of ads offering anything and everything for sale. Eastern people come here, these sharks grab them, sell them a farm and make them believe gold grows on trees. I am here to tell you there is nothing here for poor people but grief.

GOOD FOR THE MAYOR!

Mayor Miller has met the best expectations of him in the street railway crisis by calling the bluff of the reorganizers. Answering their threat to go to the Federal courts for a preposterously high valuation, which would mean a higher fare if the franchise is not granted, the Mayor tells F. O. Watts, chairman of the reorganization committee, that the franchise can wait. He is, he says, unwilling to lend himself and his administration to exploitation of the street railways for the benefit of speculators, and sees no reason why the new owners of the property cannot proceed with the franchises they have now. It would, in his opinion, be unwise for the city to tie itself up for 30 years with the surface lines at a time when new metropolitan systems of transportation are evolving and the future needs of St. Louis remain to be determined.

The Post-Dispatch applauds this declaration by the Mayor. It would be a great blow to the public welfare to have the Mayor and his administration join with the people who are attempting to exploit the street railway system. No matter how hard we struggle in a subsequent attempt to articulate subways and surface lines, we could hardly hope to extricate ourselves from the net in which we might be caught at this time. Fortunately, the Mayor and his advisers see this. They have in mind, as we all should have in mind, the growth of the city and its inevitable needs. They have in mind also what other progressive cities are doing. A franchise of any kind to a public utility has become a thing of the past. No modern municipal administration deals in such worn-out wares. The modern method is to grant the public utilities, where they are privately owned, permits to operate. This is good enough for bigger cities than St. Louis, and it is good enough for us.

With Mayor Miller's repudiation of the schemes of the reorganizers the attempt to do with the street railways what was done with the gas utility has, in our opinion, failed. The forthright and courageous answer of the Mayor is a deserved rebuke.

WHAT PRICE INTELLECTUAL HONESTY?

J. B. Powell, a Missourian, the militant editor of the China Weekly Review in Shanghai, dared to say in his paper what he thought about the attitude of the great Powers toward China. Immediately the screws began to be applied. The American Chamber of Commerce in China, of which he had been secretary, demanded his resignation. Now the National City Bank of New York, a power in international finance, which for 10 years had used the columns of his paper, has withdrawn its advertising and placed it in the British-owned North China Daily News. Effect has followed cause with grim inevitability. Powell offended by his independence, and he is being punished.

POINCARÉ'S HALF-TRUTH.

Even if Premier Poincaré can't realize that the war is over, and that it is no longer wise to reiterate the myth that Germany was solely responsible for its beginning, it seems that he might at least keep a little closer to the whole truth than he did in his comment regarding Belgian neutrality, in his speech at Laeken, Belgium, on last Sunday.

Denouncing as untrue certain statements in the recent report of the Reichstag's commission for the investigation of the causes of the war, he reminded the world that just prior to the invasion of Belgium the British Government asked Paris and Berlin if they would agree to respect the neutrality of Belgium, and that while France immediately answered in the affirmative, Germany did not respond at all.

Had Premier Poincaré desired to present the whole truth, regarding this affair, he might have read from the "British Blue Book," No. 123, the telegram which Sir Edward Grey sent to the British Ambassador at Berlin, to wit:

He (the German Ambassador to England) asked me whether, if Germany gave a promise not to violate Belgian neutrality, we would engage to remain neutral.

I replied that I could not say that. . . . Premier Poincaré, again, had he desired to present all the facts in the matter, might have quoted Lord Loreburn's interpretation of this telegram:

If language means anything, this means that whereas Mr. Gladstone bound this country to war in order to safeguard Belgian neutrality, Sir Edward would not even bind this country to neutrality in order to save Belgium.

If the French Premier cannot be impeccably just to the diplomatic history of other Powers, wouldn't it appear that his concern for the future peace and amicability of France and her neighbors, about which he is forever talking, would dictate that he cease reiterating war-time arguments based upon half-truths?

SAFETY IN THE AIR.

Assertions are made from time to time, by men qualified to speak, that air travel is quite as safe as travel by automobile or train. The public receives such statements with reservation. The popular impression persists that a voyage in the air is an adventure spiced with danger. This is evidenced in the fact that a trip by plane is something to talk about with a swagger of bragado, or at least with the deft accents of pride. It is conclusively demonstrated by the fact that the vast majority of people have yet to make their initial voyage.

So, before aviation takes its place among the accepted facilities of travel it must overcome that moral hazard of popular fear. This will not happen suddenly. The world is not going to wake up one of those fine mornings convinced that the airplane is as secure as the sedan or Pullman. That mental attitude will be attained by degrees as this new mode of travel slowly proves itself. That process is now at work.

The history of our air mail offers effective testimony. When that enterprise was launched, in 1922, the Department of Commerce tells us, there was one crew death for each 128,600 miles flown. Three years later, in 1925, the death rate had dropped to one for each 789,110 miles, and the record of last year shows a single fatality for 2,292,273 miles. The progress recorded in such statistics is undeniable. It may not justify the official statement that "the time is almost here when a plane wreck can be directly attributed either to defective machinery or incompetent piloting," but we are moving fast towards that goal. Moreover, defects in engineering and construction are disappearing, while the art of piloting is being advanced by the widening knowledge of meteorology gained in the triumphant flights of the last few rubric weeks.

The doubting Thomases are, as always, with us, but, one.

like the age of steam, the age of iron, the age of steel, the age of electricity, the age of air is coming. It is already brightening the horizon.

AN AMERICAN AMRITSAR.

Ocotil, in the mountains of Nicaragua, and Amritsar, in the Indian Punjab, are physically separated by the Pacific Ocean. In their political significance they may not be so far apart as that.

In 1920, when the people of the Punjab were aroused by two irksome sedition laws imposed upon them by the Government, British troops stationed at Amritsar fired upon the natives, with terrible consequences, some 1000 men, women and children being killed. Gen. Dyer, who was in command, reported that the mob, seeking to secure release of two of their number under arrest, attacked the troops, who thereupon opened fire, though the mob was in part made up of women and children, even mothers with babes in their arms.

It approximated what American Marines stationed at Ocotil did last Sunday. When the revolutionary army fired upon the American position part of the townspeople went out and joined in the attack, a sufficient commentary, surely, upon the popularity of our occupation. Fighting with such crude firearms as they could rustle, as we ourselves did at Bunker Hill, the wretched inhabitants, crazed by love of country and resentment of its desecration by a foreign foe, exposed themselves to the crack armament of the most powerful country in the world, with machine guns, quick-firing cannon and bomb-dropping planes, quickly snuffed out the lives of 500 Nicaraguans and reduced their sublime sacrifice to the hollow mockery of folly.

Great Britain has never recovered in the Orient from Amritsar. There is not a man, woman or child in India who does not know about it. The least Chinaman in the fastnesses of the celestial mountains, or the humblest peasant in Tibet, knows that at Amritsar the Europeans, with their great guns, massacred the defenseless Orientals, making no exception of women, children or infants in arms. That massacre has cost Britain more prestige in Asia than all the cruelties of Lord Clive or the incredible bump-tousness of the opium war. It is, indeed, in the background of Britain's rupture with Russia and all those ills which plague the British influence from the Yellow Sea to the Mediterranean. In a long calendar of folly, of blunder piled upon blunder, the arch blunderer, Britain, never excelled that.

Is this what Ocotil is to be to us? It is very likely. We may be sure that every Latin American will know about it. We may safely assume that every tiny hamlet in the Cordilleras or the Andes, every thatched-top village in the Amazon wilderness, will know that on one side was conquest, with its wealth and its arms, and on the other only the defenseless native. That is the sort of thing that needs no radio and no press. It is the sort of thing that will do to our prestige in Latin America what Amritsar has done for British prestige in the Orient.

If there is a greater folly the United States could commit the Post-Dispatch does not know what it is!

THE MOUNT HOOD TRAGEDY.

Mountain climbing always has been and always will be one of man's favorite ways to amuse himself because there is always a chance that he will end up in the bottom of a crevasse as did the nine men who tried to climb Mount Hood Sunday. They were hacking steps in an icy slope when it happened. One man slipped and carried down all the others who were roped to him. One was killed and others were seriously injured.

There is no place like the slopes of a formidable peak for exquisite coquetry with death. The grip of a hob-nailed toe on a rock or a grim hand-hold is frequently the only barrier to disaster. We dare say there will be a rush of the mountain-climbing clan to Mount Hood to answer its challenge. That clan is never daunted.

THE PRESIDENT AND THE NEWS.

Mr. Coolidge, it seems, has developed into a news impresario. When things are dull at the Black Hills lodge—that is to say, when no visitor is there to hand out an interview pledging his state to Mr. Coolidge for a "second elective term"—the President, like a good managing editor, proposes subjects for the correspondents to write about. He thought they could make some hot stuff out of the Federal dry farming project at Ardmore and the irrigation works at Belle Fourche. He is credited also with having suggested some "good picture possibilities" to the photographers.

Now, if Mr. Coolidge really has the "born editor's nose for news," as one dispatch says, he will not stop with such assignments as these. He will even go beyond the great assistance that he rendered the news reel man when he re-enacted the scene of his arrival at the lodge. He will just sit down at his desk, sans chape and spurs, and tell the reporters whether or not he is going to run for a third term. Or he will announce a time for calling Congress into session to deal with the flood-relet problem. Or he will let us have some more light on what the Government intends to do down in Nicaragua.

By doing any of these things Mr. Coolidge could ease the burden of the correspondents much more effectively than by rushing them off to Ardmore for a story about dry farming.

THE STONE MOUNTAIN MEMORIAL.

It begins to look as though there may not be any Stone Mountain Memorial after all, inasmuch as the 12-year lease which the Daughters of the Confederacy hold on the Mountain is about to expire.

The memorial would, of course, have been completed had Gutzon Borglum been permitted to remain as sculptor. This fact is not forgotten by the commentators on the present unfortunate situation, and the dismissal of Mr. Borglum and the work which his successor has attempted to fashion have come in for some barbed criticism, as may be seen in this comment by Edward Shorter, an artist:

A tangle of horses' legs, waving headgear and stilted figures, obviously, too obviously, posed for the occasion; this is the present design with which the courtier of selfish politicians and shysters, considering only their own self-aggrandizement and who seem to dominate the association, are supplanting arbitrarily in place of Mr. Borglum's dignified conception.

If the Stone Mountain Memorial Association had once known what it knows now, it would probably not have dismissed Mr. Borglum. It evidently knew little about artists then, and so could not warm up to anybody as supersensitive and bull-headed as this

"IT'S A LONG WAY TO NICARAGUA."

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

HE-MAN STUFF.

From the New York Times.
IN the People's Business, organ of the La Follette progressives, Basil Manly, the editor, takes the President to task for his recent appearance in cowboy clothes. "The President of the United States," he says, "has become a pitiful puppet of publicity. The supreme magistrate of the greatest nation on earth, clownishly garbed in caricature cowboy costume, parades before the moving-picture cameras in a vain attempt to convince the multitudes that he is a he-man. And the moving-picture audiences brought with laughter as this bewildered little man teeters down the steps in his vaudeville chaps and timidly grasps the reins of the gift-horse he fears to mount."

Does Mr. Manly overstate the case? Perhaps. But even Mr. Coolidge's supporters were alarmed when news of the monkey-shine reached them. For example, the Boston Herald, a conservative Republican paper, had this to say about it: "We doubt if it was wise to don the apparel, or to submit to the photographs or to permit the wire transmission to newspapers in all parts of the land. We believe our own Mr. Frank W. Stearns, with his accurate and discriminating tastes, would not have allowed this to happen if he had been on the scene. Even the trouser-leg which the President wore, as shown by telegraphic transmission, carried the letters C-A-L and looked to us more like the map of California than anything intended to fit human anatomy."

So runs the comment from friend and foe.

GIFT.

From the New Yorker.

AN unaccountable weakness for "inside stories" leads us to set down information just gained from a source undoubtedly authentic regarding the recall of one of our former Ambassadors, frequently seen about it. It seems that this diplomat, although considered an unusual sort of person, was doing well enough until the calendar brought forth a royal birthday, that of the Queen of the country in which he was resident. Eager to please, the Ambassador gained from the King permission to honor his consort with a present upon the anniversary. On that day a plumber arrived at the palace and announced that he had come to install a completely equipped American bathroom—for that was the gift. In diplomatic circles there was laughter, not all of it confined to the steeve. And an Ambassador must not be laughed at.

HIGH-HATTING UNCLE SAM.

From the San Francisco Chronicle.
WHAT can be the beauties of life in the many places whose inhabitants neglect their chances to come to America and crash the gate? Do they have finer sunsets in Ruanda than in the United States? Are there bigger steel mills in Nauri for the Nauruans to get jobs in? Are the traffic cops politer in Andorra, or in Bhutan, or Muscat?

All of these countries are permitted under immigration laws 100 immigrants each year. Are the French Camerouns, Ethiopia, Nepal, New Guinea, Samoa, Tongaland and Yap. Yet not one of these named has sent a single immigrant to the United States in the year.

Belgium, Germany, Great Britain and the Scandinavian countries, to mention only a few, have used up their entire quotas, so that we need not feel altogether high-hatted. But with so many waiting in line to get in we cannot but wonder what holds the others at home.

IMPATIENCE IN TEXAS.

From the Boston Herald.
THIRTY-FIVE convicts scaled the wall in Texas, being unable to wait for the Ferguson to get back into politics.

THE CIRCUS CLOWN IN THE WAR.

From the Detroit Free Press.
THE story has yet to be told of the part that good humor played in the winning of the war. Probably in no other war did the Governments concerned realize so keenly the importance of laughter as an element of victory. One is reminded of this by the tribute just bestowed (the Palms of the Academy) on Coco, a circus clown, whose real name is Raoul Jouin, and who, when not fighting, went about the front making the poilus laugh.

Men like Coco were tremendous assets to every army. By their efforts the late unpleasantness was made less unpleasant—hence more endurable. Some armies had greater funds of native humor than others; but to every army there came moments of nervous tension and depression which it was necessary to counteract by means of what one might call induced, organized laughter. Not alone the horror, but also the monotony of war had to be lightened for human beings whose natural capacity for either is limited. It can be said for Coco, as for the other laughter makers of the different fighting forces that they at least saved many soldiers from becoming raving maniacs—and insane soldiers, like dead soldiers, are not of much use when a battle must be won.

BALLADE OF A VANISHED SPLENDOR.

When I was but a future man—
Sweet childhood's day, too swiftly passed—
I had a very simple plan
To gauge what wealth men had amassed.
Adown each pouch of wealth so vast
My childish soul was filled with fear,
Arrays of gems proclaimed its caste—
Where are the gems of yesteryear?

Ere yet my voting days began
Among the Democrats I'd classed
My simple self, and to that clan
I will be true while time shall last;
I little reck the silly blast
That fills the working man with fear,
G. O. P. talk is all bombast—
Where are the gems of yesteryear?

Perhaps on jewels there's a ban,
No longer do we stand aghast
At gems to fill a moving van;
Does present plainness well contrast
With that fair day of fairer past
When flashing fronts might serve in
The hearse of the iconoclast?
Where are the gems of yesteryear?

L'Envol.

Sweet Prince, as an enthusiast
One vanished thing I hold most dear:
To my same query I hold fast—
Where are the gems of yesteryear?

Glowing Optimism

CONGAREE SKETCHES. By E. C. L. Adams (The University of North Carolina Press.)

PAUL GREEN, whose Negro plays have won him well-deserved fame, has written a glowingly optimistic introduction to these sketches of the lower Carolina Negroes which have been collected by Dr. Adams, a white physician of Columbia, S. C. Mr. Green's avowed belief that the present interest in Negro life and fiction dealing with Negro life and fiction has a profound social significance. He says: "The United States is awakening to the fact that the destiny of the Negro is its destiny. Black and white are inextricably mingled in blood and bone and intention, and that as the white man falls, the Negro falls, and as the Negro rises, the white man rises. Tomorrow either both will be in the ditch or both will be on the bank, and the Negro will be on the bank and the white man in the ditch." Mr. Green further speaks of the "sweet judgment of charity and humanity" that he believes is now becoming obvious in the social relations of the two races. "For now," he adds, "the Negro is upon his way and the white man with him—both going together, brothers in the common cause of self-expression."

It is to be feared that Mr. Green's vision does his head less credit than his heart. Even if the present disquieting interest in Negro music, verse and fiction were the result of a genuine artistic impulse, there is something more profound than any art at the bottom of national consciousness. Can anyone suppose the millions in both races know anything whatever about the moment's vogue among our restless, novelty-seeking literary sophisticates? And even if those millions were informed that such a vogue is going, would they be in the least impressed? Mr. Green's mistake is in regarding American literature as an expression of national consciousness; whereas, in so far as it reaches the many at all, it is only a commodity. Novels are exploited for profit by the same methods that prevail in other industries. There has been something of a vogue for Indian music and folklore; but does anyone suppose that this signifies brotherly love for the Indian?

As for the sketches here collected, they are amusing; but they are not such as to impress the

Jim Jeffries picks Sharkey to win from Dempsey. You haven't got this lad mixed with old Tom Sharkey, have you Jeff?

If this young Sharkey packed around a wallop old Tom used to tote he could probably sweep punches with Dempsey and not get any the worse of the trade.

Both the Sharkeys were sailors and know their way around the ropes pretty well. But there is nothing on the statute books that says a sailor can't get the tar knocked out of him once in a while.

However, as nearly all the experts seem to think that while Sharkey is not very good, Dempsey is worse, the odds ought to favor Dempsey.

$27.50 RINGSIDE SEATS SELLING FOR $125 EACH

This Is Scalpers' Price for First Five Rows, With $120 Asked for Those in Next Five.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, July 20.—Ringside seats for the Dempsey-Sharkey fight, with a box office price of $27.50, were reported being offered along Broadway today at $125 each.

The $125 price was being asked for seats within the first five rows, it was reported, and $120 each for seats in the next five rows.

Joseph Boynton, chief ticket seller of the Madison Square Garden Corporation, testified today that he received gratuities of both money and liquor from ticket agencies to whom he allotted tickets and that Tex Rickard, boxing promoter, knew that he received an "average."

Boynton appeared at the investigation being held by United States Commissioner Catter into the alleged "scalping" proclivities of ticket agencies, to testify specifically as to whether or not profiteering was going on in connection with the Dempsey-Sharkey fight at Yankee Stadium tomorrow night.

Tickets on Consignment.
He said that he allotted tickets to agencies on consignment without it being anything for them or assuming any liability at the time.

He said, however, that he was going to call all these tickets in today and agencies that did not return their unsold tickets would then either have to "sell them or eat them."

Asked by Federal Attorney Tuttle if he received any gratuities from the agencies, Boynton said it was not compulsory for them to give anything, but if they wanted to he was not the one to refuse it.

"Did anyone know how much overage you received?" asked Tuttle.

Bottles of Overage.
"I told Mr. Rickard about the bonuses I was getting," he answered. "He told me he didn't care how much overage there was as long as the accounts were straight. There were plenty of bottles of Scotch that I received, too."

There are about 17 local agencies that received tickets for tomorrow night's fight, the witness continued. Agents in Chicago, Newark, Boston, Buffalo and Philadelphia also received tickets.

Tuttle asked if any new measures had been taken to protect the public in connection with this fight since he said $22 tickets for the Maloney-Delaney fight were sold for $90.

"Do you want a frank answer?" Boynton replied. "I'll tell you, Mr. Tuttle. What's the use of having new measures? Trying to keep tickets out of the hands of speculators is like trying to keep a duck out of water."

Prison sentences will be asked for any "scalpers" found to have profited on tickets to the fight, Tuttle announced today.

"If I am able to connect with this fight," he said, "to catch any man profiteering in the sale of tickets in violation of the Federal laws I shall ask for an extreme sentence. The possible sentence is $10,000 fine and five years imprisonment. I shall ask for imprisonment in case of conviction."

HUDKINS AND BAKER HANDED SUSPENSIONS
Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Sergeant Sammy Baker, leading welterweight contender of Mitchell Field, N. Petrolle caught Brady with a short right hook to the chin as they met in the center of the ring. They weighed less than 138 pounds.

Petrolle Stops Brady.
FARGO, N. D., July 20.—Billy Petrolle, the Fargo Express, knocked out Eddie Brady of Brooklyn after 46 seconds in the first round of a scheduled 10-round affair last night. Petrolle caught Brady with a short right hook to the chin as they met in the center of the ring. They weighed less than 138 pounds.

Two upsets took place in the first round when Kestee-Carter, Oklahoma City, 1925 champion, was defeated by Fay Coleman, Los Angeles, 2 and 1, and when Rudie Wilhelm, Portland, Pacific Northwest champion, was beaten by the same margin by his townsman, Guy Standifer.

What looked for a while to be an upheaval was Chick Evans' turning 3 down to Lawson Little, Portland, Ore. Evans' weakness on the greens and one bad approach shot cost him this margin.

Evans' weakness on the greens and one bad approach shot cost him this margin. The runner goes back to third and the field umpire renders a decision of safe. Which one has jurisdiction? Cardinal Fan, Jefferson City, Mo.

The field umpire had jurisdiction in this case, unless there was another base occupied besides third, in which case it would devolve upon the umpire-in-chief to make the decision.

Two strikes on the batter and a man on third. The pitcher commits a balk but winds up again and pitches before the runner from third can cross the plate. On the pitch the batter fans. Does the runner count if two were out at the time? Claud Collins, Sparta, Ill.

The runner on third was entitled to score on the pitcher's balk and play should have been stopped by the umpire to permit him to cross the plate.

Batter fouls a pitch and runner from third is halfway home at the time. The catcher throws to third and the ball flies wild. Can the runner continue on home or must he first go back and touch third? Paul Emmmons, Lawrenceville, Ill.

O'FARRELL'S ANSWERS

Runner is trapped off third by a throw from the pitcher and the umpire-in-chief, following the action, calls the runner out. The runner goes back to third and the field umpire renders a decision of safe. Which one has jurisdiction? Cardinal Fan, Jefferson City, Mo.

The field umpire had jurisdiction in this case, unless there was another base occupied besides third, in which case it would devolve upon the umpire-in-chief to make the decision.

Two strikes on the batter and a man on third. The pitcher commits a balk but winds up again and pitches before the runner from third can cross the plate. On the pitch the batter fans. Does the runner count if two were out at the time? Claud Collins, Sparta, Ill.

The runner on third was entitled to score on the pitcher's balk and play should have been stopped by the umpire to permit him to cross the plate.

Batter fouls a pitch and runner from third is halfway home at the time. The catcher throws to third and the ball flies wild. Can the runner continue on home or must he first go back and touch third? Paul Emmmons, Lawrenceville, Ill.

Sharkey 8 to 5 Choice With Few Takers Found

that, not having any real choice, he should not make one.

It's all because now that both fighters are through with their training work, the Battle of Yankee Stadium looms as the most uncertain of the boys have yet had to tackle.

Confidence had been "reigning supreme" ever since Jack won the crown. Even last year, confidence was strong enough to make Jack a 4 to 1 choice to win.

But although on all sides it is admitted that Dempsey is in better frame of mind, in better physical condition and, all-in-all, a better fighter, and at the same time still they hesitate to pick the former punch king.

The records which say that a fighter cannot come back, once he has slipped, deter them from selecting Dempsey.

Can't Forget Dempsey Sock.
On the other hand, the pickers cannot forget that Dempsey still has the well-beloved sock. And that any man who carries dynamite is likely to explode it some time during an hour's tussle.

Few like to pick a 22-caliber rifle to whip a man with an elephant gun, even though the heavy artillery be aimed by a one-eyed opponent.

And so the experts are backing up and filling around, with old age and youth as the rival bases of contention and none knowing just how far years and rust have handicapped Dempsey and how much youth will profit his opponent.

At Sharkey's final workout, the guessers were running around in circles trying to bolster up their respective views. If any, without effect. It is considered likely that unless relief is afforded soon, the city will be compelled to break out a few score more of beds in the observation wards before the last edition goes to press here tonight.

Rumors of injury and breakdown to Dempsey flew around madly all day yesterday, only to be indignantly denied today. There were some cruel enough to think some tired news gatherers, having suffered a shortage of copy, built up an "injured arm" out of a bottle of liniment. This gave them additional copy the next day in that they had to deny the first report.

Unless something has happened to Dempsey lately his condition is perfectly O. K. with Leo P. Flynn, who is piloting Dempsey through dangerous shoals.

It may be said that both men have reached as good condition as it is possible for either to be in.

For Sharkey this statement means something definite. It means that no athlete could be in better physical condition than he displayed in his workout yesterday. His boxing was curtailed, but he worked a good 40 minutes in all, and the manner in which he moved, boxed and perspired convinced all that that worry which physical form need be entertained.

Dempsey, who will be in town today,

WILL BE VICTOR BY KNOCKOUT IN FIVE ROUNDS—DE FORREST

WRAV'S COLUMN

Jeff Picks Sharkey.

NEW YORK, July 20.

JIM JEFFRIES can't see Dempsey in the coming battle. "Dempsey is a cock."

YOUTH, Jim observes.

Jeffries doesn't know what that means. He attempted what was the same task Dempsey is facing.

Perhaps Jeffries case was a little more aggravated than Dempsey's. But, like Dempsey, just before the fight Jeffries looked "wonderful." And, like Dempsey, he was boxing a week before the fight. His adviser, Jim Corbett, was so incensed against Jeff for his refusal to box that he quit the fellow's camp in disgust.

Again, all the experts were raving about Jeffries' wonderful appearance, just as they agree that Jack Dempsey looks fine.

But when the fight day came, Jeffries was just a shell—a dazed, stupefied man, who knew so little of what was going on that one writer of national standing, Bob Edgren, was for a long time convinced Jeffries had been drugged.

Just Age and Rust.

THIS "drugging" business is just a joke. They dug up such a story about Dempsey after the Tunney fight, because Dempsey had stood stupidly taking punches that he knew not to avoid, or missed by a foot swings he attempted to land.

They hinted here that the Harry Wills-Paulino fight was "fixed" because the giant Negro stood helplessly around, unable to co-ordinate either for defense or attack.

The "drug" in all cases was nothing more than the effect of lack of boxing and age. The combination of both slows up the reactions of a fighter badly. It requires an appreciable length of time before his eye observes can reach his brain and then he is relayed to the muscles for action.

In a young, active boxer, such a delay is instantaneous. It frequently enables a fly fighter to beat the other fellow to the punch. Sharkey does that in his workouts.

But with years and idleness, a boxer is forced to stop and think. And in the ring there is no time to think out a defense. It must be automatic and instantaneous.

When co-dynamic is lost, the fighter is finished.

And that is why Jeffries, Dempsey and Wills, in their come-back fights, appeared to be "doped."

Dempsey's Atlantic City work, plus his training camp ground at Saratoga and in California, may have improved him over last year's effort. But certainly his entire case has a remarkable similarity to that of Jeffries.

Going West.

ALL the conversation emanating from the Wise Men of the press in this vicinity indicates that the next championship fight is cut and dried for Chicago, where 150,000 seats will be available.

The reasons brought forth for this are several.

1. New York's maximum ticket price will not permit the promoters to make money on the title go.

2. Philadelphia also has a ticket price limit and besides, there are too many politicians waiting around with knives to cut themselves in on the money.

3. With a $50 maximum at Soldiers Field, Chicago, a $3,000,000 house would be possible.

4. Boyle's Thirty Acres Stadium, scene of several great fights, has been wrecked.

Only a belated change of mind by the New York Commission could alter plans to take the title bout to Chicago, which already are said to have been completed, with Jim Mullen as the straw promoter required under the Illinois law.

Rickard probably would keep the fight here for a $50 ringside seat price.

Breathe Freely, Men.

THE announcement that the Jersey City stadium at Boyle's Thirty Acres has been wrecked will cause newspaper writers everywhere to heave a sigh of relief. Gentlemen with uncertain hearts thrilled every time a crowd packed this wooden trap. It was ideally constructed for an appalling relay, in case of either fire or accident.

On more than one occasion, the structure swayed and bent so fearfully that panic impended. That a great disaster was sure to occur, sooner or later, had the use of this frame bowl continued, was the opinion of several authorities on construction.

The crash of a stadium seating 100,000 persons could have been heard throughout the universe.

HAYVE DE GRACE RACE HANDICAP ENTRIES

CLOSE ON AUG. 22

HAYVE DE GRACE, Md., July 20.—The three great fall annuals of the Hartford Agricultural and Breeders' Association, each with an added money value of $20,000, will close Monday, Aug. 22, according to an announcement today by Edward Burke, general manager of Hayve de Grace racing.

These are the Potomac for three-year-olds, one mile and a sixteenth; Eastern Shore, for two-year-olds, six furlongs; and Hayve de Grace Cup, for three-year-olds and over, one mile and a furlong.

All are handicaps, which carried an added money value of $15,000 each last year and in 1925, and before that, $10,000. The nomination fee will be $50 in each, the starting fee $200.

They should gross close to $20,000 apiece, and pay the winners about $25,000 each; the second horses, $3,000; third, $1,500, and the fourth $500. The owner of the winner of the Hayve de Grace Cup will get a silver trophy.

They will embrace the last 10 days of September and the first of October.

BROWNS HIT 321, BUT LOSE 13 OF 21 GAMES

Hurlers Are Found for More Than Seven Runs a Tilt—Senators Here Tomorrow.

By Herman Wecke.

Although the Browns have out-batted the opposition .321 to .305, Dan Howley's men have won but eight of the 21 games played since the St. Louis Americans returned to Sportsworld park. Five clubs have been opposed on the home lot. Only one series—that with Boston, when four straight were chalked up on the right side of the ledger—has been won.

Opening the home stand with the White Sox, Howley's men won one of four. Followed the slugging series with the Tigers, when the Browns took two of five. Facing the Athletics, Howley's men dropped three of four. Then the clean sweep over the Red Sox, followed by four straight drubbings at the hands of the Yankees.

In the 21 games, the Browns have scored a total of 146 runs, just one tally less than an average of seven a game. The men of Howley have rapped out 13 safeties. Against this, the opposing clubs have put over 149 markers, over seven a game, and have done so on an average of 7.1 a game.

Some Interesting Figures.

Facts on the Browns' home stay bring out some interesting figures. For instance, they show that in but one series—that with the Yankees—were the Browns held to fewer than six runs a game. Also that only in the set with the Red Sox did Howley's men hold the opposing teams to less than 6.5 tallies each battle.

The Browns did their greatest slugging against the Tigers averaging 9.4 runs and 13.4 safeties a game, although dropping the odd battle in five. This was against 8 runs and 12.4 hits for Moriarty's crew. In the Yankee series, the men of Howley were held to 3.2 runs and 8.5 safeties in each battle.

Facing the tall-end Red Sox, Brownie pitchers gave three runs and seven safeties a game, the best pitching exhibited during the home stand of the Phil Ball entry.

Following are the figures on the average runs and hits a game in each series:

Browns. Opposition.

Vs. Yankees 3.2 8.5

Vs. Red Sox 6.7 10.5

Vs. Athletics 7.2 11

Vs. Tigers 9.4 13.4

Vs. White Sox 6.5 12

Fielding Has Been Poor.

While the figures show that nothing has been wrong with the batting, the fielding, as well as the pitching, has been of color. The Browns in the 21 battles made 43 errors, or an average of more than two a game. The Browns' fielding percentage was .949, whereas the opposing clubs, charged with nine fewer outs, had a mark of .959. This falling off in fielding made the pitchers look bad on more than one occasion.

The Browns' worst fielding came in the Detroit series, when 15 errors were made. Against the White Sox, the locals made five. It was six against the Athletics, 12 while facing the Red Sox, six coming in one battle, and five in the set with the New Yorkers. Boston with but three bobbles and the Yankees with only four had the best record among the winning clubs.

From which it can be seen that the devastating punch the Brownies own is to win ball games, the pitching as well as the defense of the club needs bolstering.

Ferdinand Funeral Set for Sunday—Former Crown Prince to Make No Attempt to Return.

BUCHAREST, July 21.—The body of King Ferdinand, who died yesterday, was started today from the castle at Sinaia to Bucharest.
 On its arrival at Cotroceni, the body will lie in state in the gilded hall of the palace. At his own request Ferdinand will be buried beside his uncle and his aunt, Queen Elisabeth, better known as Carmen Sylva.

The cabinet assembled this morning at Sinaia, and decided to postpone the funeral until Sunday.

The ministers later went to the palace where the Rumanian patriarch recited prayers at the Cathedral and Premier Bratiano delivered a short address, condoling Queen Marie and eulogizing the late monarch. Minister of Justice Popescu thereupon opened Ferdinand's will and the letter, which the late monarch had addressed to Premier Bratiano. At 1 p. m. the coffin was placed upon a gun-carriage and conveyed to the railroad station where the ministers lifted it into the mourning car.

All parties to attend funeral.
 All of the opposition parties, including those who objected to the regency have announced their intention to participate in the funeral ceremonies.

Rumania's new King, Ferdinand's grandson, Michael I, a flaxen-haired boy of 6, son of former Crown Prince Carol and Princess Helena of Greece, was installed at 4 p. m. yesterday, before the National Assembly as Ferdinand's successor, and the Regency Council, which will act for him until Michael becomes 18 years of age, was sworn at the same time. All parties took the oath of allegiance to the new monarch; the Liberal Ministry, after the formality of tendering its resignation which was rejected by the Regency Council, continued at the helm.

The regents are Prince Nicholas, Patriarch Miron Cristea and G. V.
 Buzdugan, Supreme Court Justice.

State troops throughout the country have sworn their allegiance to the new regime and the capital and country are calm. The General commanding the Bucharest area, has issued an edict prohibiting all manifestations, the spreading of false rumors, and public discussion of the dynastic question. He has also decreed that all theaters must be closed and there shall be no music or dancing until after King Ferdinand's funeral Saturday.
 Public buildings are occupied by soldiers.

Michael Ascends Throne.

Bucharest heard the booming of the royal salute of 101 guns at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when the boy King had ascended the throne. The child, dressed in a white silk suit, black tie and patterned leather slippers, holding the arm of his mother, passed before the Deputies and Senators in the House of Parliament to receive their cheers. When the brief ceremonies were over, the little King, all about, could not conceal his pleasure, and an officer of the guards heard him whisper to his mother: "Let's go home, mama, I am hungry."

The royal party, besides Prince
 Michael, was made up of Prince
 Nicholas, second son of Ferdinand;
 Princess Helena, King Ferdinand's daughter, and Princess Helena, wife of the former Crown Prince Carol, who renounced his rights to the throne.

Seemed on Verge of Tears.

As Michael was led into the Chamber by his mother, he halted as if on the verge of tears, but after she whispered: "Remember, you are a King and the son of Kings." He steadied at the assemblage of statesmen throughout the ceremony, never changing his serious expression. His mother, in deep mourning with heavy crepe veil, seemed to be laboring under great emotion, as she stood beside him.

When the new King returned to the palace there were no cheers.
